MRS. JENSEN . . . and 'Cracker Box' . . . can anybody beat it?

Edison's 'Cracker Box' State's Littlest School?

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Edison — It's an outsize claim that an undersize school is making here, now that it's got the bighead and gone uptown.

Moved into Edison this fall as an historic attraction, the 14 by 16-foot "Cracker Box School" claims to be the state's smallest. Fingers-crossed backing come from the Furnas County Historical Society, the group which has started its restoration.

"We've publicized the school as the smallest ever since we set it in Edison for our annual Market Day celebration," said Mrs. S. E. Swayze, owner of the school's main street lot. "Nobody has successfully challenged us so far."

Apparently one of several Nebraska schools with the "Cracker Box" label, the Edison showpiece measured up to its claim against one namesake near Beaver City. Another, under restoration in Pawnee county, is probably closer but has sent no exact dimensions for comparison.

Although history is sketchy on the Furnas County building, it is known that "it once held at least eight pupils." The haziness applies to its date of construction, but it is well remembered as Livingston Dist. 104 until its abandonment in the 1930's.

The school was moved some 3½ miles from its location along the Republican River bluffs southeast of town. Priority in the renovation will go to new windows and a complete replastering.

Though they never attended the school, Mrs. Swayze and two sisters have been pushers "because we grew up as its neighbors." Mrs. Niels Jensen and her husband were responsible for a new foundation. Mrs. Henry Knuth will supply desks, blackboards and other items when the time arrives for furnishings.

"We had counted on help from an historical levy, but the county rejected the issue in this month's election," said Swayze. "I suppose we'll have to finish the job now by donations — but finish it we will."

Furious Fighting Rages Along Cambodian Border

Saigon (AP) — Furious fighting broke out along the Cambodian border Thanksgiving Day, while most of the 537,500 U.S. troops in South Vietnam took time out for turkey dinners.

In five engagements, some beginning Wednesday and continuing through Thursday, 255 enemy soldiers were killed, the U.S. Command said. U.S. casualties were 21 killed and 37 wounded and two helicopters shot down. South Vietnamese losses were 10 killed and 20 wounded.

The battles broke out in Tay Ninh province north of Saigon and near Loc Ninh farther north, an area where U.S. intelligence estimates from 15,000 to 20,000 enemy troops are concentrated.

The U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division inflicted the heaviest toll on the enemy in a battle near Loc Ninh, a district rubber plantation town near the border 70 miles north of Saigon.

The enemy lost 150 killed in this engagement, but since it raged through Tuesday and Wednesday only part of the casualties were figured in the latest casualty toll.

THE DAY JFK WAS SHOT:

Death Remained Secret

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth installment of the exclusive serialization of Jim Bishop's Book, The Day JFK Was Shot.)

By JIM BISHOP

12:30 P.M.: President Kennedy's death remained a secret to all except a select few, such as Jerry Behn, Secret Service man in the White House fifteen hundred miles away. It was not known to Lyndon Johnson, thirty-five feet away.

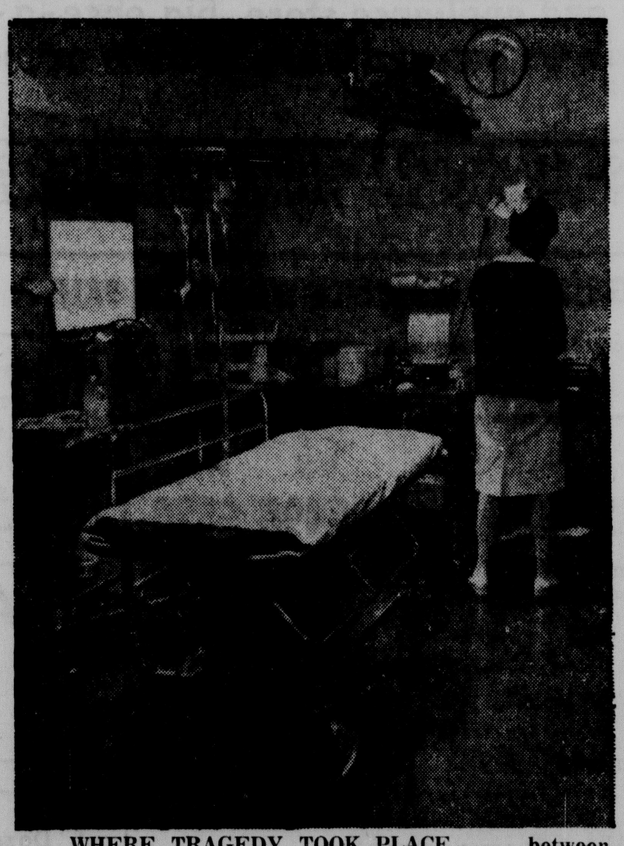

A few minutes before, Kenneth O'Donnell had peered inside the cubicle in which Lyndon Johnson and Mrs. Johnson stayed on orders of the Secret Service, and said: "It looks bad. Perhaps fatal. I'll keep you informed."

O'Donnell went back to Agent Clint Hill. "Order a casket," he whispered. "Find some place nearby."

Steve Landrigan of the hospital staff gave Hill the name of a nearby undertaker. Vernon Oneal was telephoned. "This is the Secret Service calling from Parkland Hospital. Put the best casket you have in a coach and get here quickly." Mr. Oneal started to say he had a bronze casket for $3,900, but he was talking to a dead phone.

Outside Trauma One, O'Donnell, the Secret Service, and Mrs. Kennedy conferred. Malcolm Kilduff was assigned to announce the death, and asked what was the exact time. Mrs. Kennedy wanted this to come after the priest had given her husband conditional absolution.

Dr. Malcolm Perry was telephoned and asked if 1 p.m. would be all right. Yes, the death certificate would so state.

WHERE TRAGEDY TOOK PLACE . . . between 12:30 and 1:30 p.m., Nov. 22, 1963: Trauma Room No. 1, Parkland hospital, Dallas.

An agent ordered the hospital administrator: "Don't let anybody know what time the President died. Security."

☆ ☆ ☆

Word went from Jerry Behn's office at the White House to Secret Service Headquarters to Robert F. Kennedy before another phone rang and J. Edgar Hoover informed the attorney general that the President was "in critical condition."

Robert Kennedy said: "You may be interested to know that my brother is dead."

Reds To Ignore S. Vietnamese

. . . IN NEW MOVE

Paris (AP) — North Vietnam Thursday matched an allied snub to the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front with a refusal to talk to South Vietnam's envoys at the expanded Paris peace talks. It said the front also would talk only with the United States.

"In settling the Vietnam problem," declared Radio Hanoi, "we will talk only with the United States."

Coming after Communist insistence that the new Paris talks be "a conference of four," North Vietnam's latest declaration seemed to mark a switch of position.

Appearances

But as American and South Vietnamese authorities saw things, the switch was more apparent than real.

Both noted it followed Washington and Saigon affirmations Wednesday, when President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam ended his boycott of the Paris parley. The two governments said the front, Hanoi's protege, will not be recognized or dealt with in the negotiations.

Thus Hanoi's new move, for the isolation of Saigon at the peace table was taken as a predictable escalation of the propaganda war between the contenders for power in Vietnam.

Despite Hanoi's announced refusal to talk with Saigon, and Saigon's refusal to talk with the front, all four parties have said they will be at the conference when it begins, probably during the second week of December.

Contemptuous Of Thieu

As usual, Hanoi radio was contemptuous of Thieu's government just as the front's spokesmen have been in Paris.

"The Saigon regime is only the puppet regime of the U.S. aggressors," the broadcast said. "It does not represent anyone. It has no right to speak on behalf of anyone. We will not talk to it on any matter.

"The problem of ending the war, therefore, can only be settled between the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam, the National Liberation Front and the United States.

Assured Hanoi Agreed

In ending his boycott, Thieu insisted that North Vietnam enter into direct and serious talks with Sagon and said he was assured by the Americans that Hanoi had agreed to this in private negotiations.

Moscow joined the Communist chorus.

The official Soviet news agency Tass in a dispatch from Paris assailed the U.S.-South Vietnamese definition of the conference as essentially a two-sided affair — an allied and a Communist side. This description, Tass claimed, showed the Americans to be unready "for a correct solution of the Vietnamese problem."

Delegates Go Ahead

Authorities of the four participating delegations ignored the war of words and went ahead with their own preparations for a confrontation that seems likely, in the first phase, to be dominated by a war of words.

A special assistant of Nguyen Cao Ky flew back to Saigon after carefully planning the arrival of the South Vietnamese vice president, who will mastermind Saigon's negotiating team.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and his aides observed Thanksgiving Day but also prepared to meet Hanoi delegates in a private, informal attempt to settle as many procedural difficulties as possible in advance of the first four-way encounter. There were few hopes that much progress would be achieved.

The North Vietnamese and front leaders, Ambassador Xuan Thuy and Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, quietly reinforced their delegations with officials newly arrived from home bases but they would give out no details.

Wide Range Of Facilities Used To Hold Juveniles

. . . SURVEY OF 45 COUNTIES SHOWS

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Detention facilities for juveniles in Nebraska range from the sheriff's home to the maximum security cell of county jails, Mrs. Robert Beggs of Lincoln found in a study on juvenile protection.

Among the other arrangements for juveniles detained by county officials are the sheriff's quarters of the jail, the women's quarters and the regular jail facility, reported Mrs. Beggs.

The maximum security cell or "hole" is used in a few cases for youths when men and women are already incarcerated in the county jail, she learned. Some counties place a child in the sheriff's or a county welfare worker's home when the regular jail is not available.

Use Nursing Home

In Lancaster County juveniles 15 years old and younger are taken to Westview, the county nursing home northeast of Lincoln. Sixteen and 17-year-olds are kept in the City Jail.

Some of the counties only hold runaway youths and others must take any children to be held to another county for jailing, according to Mrs. Beggs. She noted that some officials expressed concern about the quarters they must use for juveniles, but there is "nothing else" that a lot of the counties can do.

Mrs. Beggs, president of the Lincoln Area Council PTA and chairman of the state PTA juvenile protection committee, conducted the survey in preparation for a national conference with juvenile judges on judicial concern for children in trouble.

Forty-five of Nebraska's 93 counties responded to her questions about jail facilities for juveniles, the number of children arrested and detained last year, the average and longest length of stay and the use of juvenile probation officers.

Juvenile Judge W. W. Nuernberger or a juvenile probation officer decides whether youths under 18 will be put at Westview or in jail for any length of time.

However, in some localities the police officer or sheriff makes the decision to place juveniles in detention facilities. "This colors the effect on a child and his attitude toward law enforcement," Mrs. Beggs contended.

Attorney Decides

In several counties it is the county attorney or the judge who makes the decision about imprisonment.

More than 11,000 youths were arrested in 1967 in less than half of the state's counties, officials told Mrs. Beggs. Some 3,380 of those juveniles were taken to court.

Not included in the total, however, were statistics from 48 counties who did not respond to Mrs. Beggs' questionnaire as well as from the several counties, such as Lincoln County, which said that accurate records were not kept on juveniles.

3,900 Contacts

Lincoln police made a total of 3,903 contacts with juveniles in 1967, according to officer Gail Gade. Of that number, 814 were referred to the Lancaster County juvenile probation office. Some 282 sixteen and 17-year-olds were taken to municipal, county or district court, and 368 youths were taken to the county juvenile court.

Omaha officers apprehended 5,308 youths in 1967 and referred 2,008 to court.

The ratio of court referrals varied considerably from county to county. In Saline County, for example, of 450 youths arrested, 400 were taken to court. Harrison County only handled one of the seven arrested juveniles in court.

Juveniles were detained by county authorities from a few hours to six months for one youth. At the county's request, Mrs. Begg's did not disclose the locale of the longest juvenile detention reported. The reason for the long stay was that the officers did not know what else to do with the youth until court convened, she was told.

Training Lacked

Only 11 of the 45 reporting counties have probation officers. Three use the sheriff, she said. Twenty-five men in the state are classified as juvenile officers. Some have no training for the job. Only three have had formal training for juvenile work.

Mrs. Beggs concluded from her study that police need training in working with juveniles and that more probation officers are needed to work with the courts. In one reporting county, she noted, commitments to Kearney were cut from 30 to 3 per year after a probation officer was hired by the county.

Declared Mrs. Beggs, "it is much cheaper to spend time, effort and money to correct and rehabilitate a child, helping him to become a useful, responsible citizen than to keep him a lifetime in institutions."

750 Turkish Students Protest Arrival Of U.S. Ambassador

Ankara (AP) — About 750 Turkish students shouting "Damn America!" jammed Ankara's airport Thursday in a demonstration against the arrival here of the new U.S. ambassador, Robert W. Komer, a former official in Vietnam.

Komer got off the jetliner at the end of the runway and avoided them.

Komer, formerly an official with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, served in South Vietnam as chief U.S. adviser on pacification.

Cordoned Off

Hundreds of riot police and six truckloads of troops cordoned off the section of the airport reserved for incoming foreign planes.

But security officials decided to take Komer off the plane at the end of the runway to avoid incidents.

The students shouted, "Damn America," "Yankee go home" and "Independent Turkey." There were some instances of students cursing, shoving and spitting on American officials coming through the lobby before Komer's arrival.

The students were protesting against Komer's involvement with the CIA and the war in Vietnam.

Three leftist student organizations have been distributing pamplets in Ankara streets for two days calling Komer "the butcher of Vietnam," and protesting his "12 years service with the CIA."

President Prodded

The student organizations also called on all citizens to telegraph President Cevdet Sunday to refuse to accept Komer's credentials and declare him "persona non grata."

In Istanbul about 60 students stoned and booed a Pan American World Airways flight from Beirut, Lebanon, in the mistaken belief that it was the ambassador's plane. Police took 18 of them into custody.

At an airport news conference Komer told newsmen his 12 years service with the CIA had been "misinterpreted."

Komer was whisked into Ankara in an embassy limousine. He arrived at the ambassador's residence without incident.

Communiques Show Vietnam War Stepped Up

(c) New York Times News Service

Saigon — New casualty statistics and recent military communiques telling of heavy fighting at points throughout South Vietnam showed that the temp of the war has stepped up in the last 10 days. There was no explanation for the change of pace but, in the past, sudden increases or decreases often have proved unimportant in the overall development of the war. (More on Page 2)

Diplomats Beset By Problems

Paris — American and Vietnamese delegates to the peace talks were grappling with such touchy procedural questions as what shape conference table to have — Hanoi wants a four-sided table so that the Viet Cong can sit at it — and whether Saigon and the Viet Cong should have separate bar facilities. (More on Page 9)

China's Timing Said Significant

Hong Kong — China experts pointed out that the timing of Communist China's move to resume ambassadorial talks with the United States in Warsaw was more important than the substance of invitation. One China watcher said that the Chinese attempt to fix their own meeting date showed that "the professionals are operating again in Peking."

Trudeau Keeps Eye To Future

Ottawa — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau of Canada said in an interview that he and his cabinet were reviewing the full range of his country's policy and that he is encouraging Canadians to invest in future development rather than "buy back" existing American holdings. (More on Page 29)

Regular Surcharge Suggested

Washington — Herbert Stein, a high-level policy adviser to President-elect Richard M. Nixon, suggested that the President and Congress give regular annual consideration to a one-year income tax surcharge. In an essay published by a nonprofit research organization, the Brookings Institute, he also said that the current four per cent inflation should be reduced to two per cent, even though this would bring "an interval of higher unemployment."

Johnsons Enjoy Turkey

San Antonio — At his Texas ranch, President Johnson dined on turkey with Mrs. Johnson's old-fashioned cornbread dressing. The Johnson family also attended church services and prayed for American soldiers in Vietnam and "the families suffering in the recent mine tragedies in West Virginia." (More on Page 2)

Battle Deaths Increase With Viet Combat Pace

Saigon (UPI) — Stepped-up combat across South Vietnam increased U.S. losses and sent South Vietnamese casualties to a two-month high, military spokesmen said Thursday.

The weekly casualty report showed 160 Americans died — 33 more than during the previous week — and 1,432 were wounded last week.

Communist deaths rose sharply to 2,175 killed, one of their costliest weeks in two months.

246 Viets Killed

South Vietnamese forces lost 246 men killed and 902 wounded, their heaviest casualties since the week of Sept. 22.

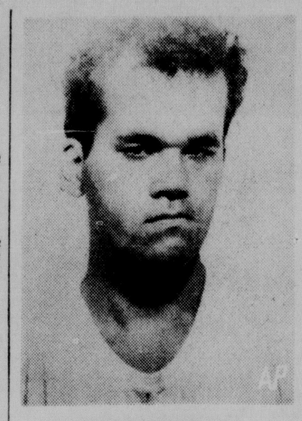

The increase in casualties reflected new fighting in the Mekong Delta and to the north on the coast south of Da Nang. The losses included the results of Communist shelling from the demilitarized zone.

The losses brought to 29,637 the number of GIs killed and to 418,006 the number of Communists slain since Jan. 1, 1961, the spokesmen said.

Another 188,497 U.S. servicemen have suffered wounds in Vietnam and 1,217 are listed as missing in action or captured by the Communists. Similar South Vietnamese figures are not available.

Government officials said the Communists killed 71 Vietnamese civilians last week, wounded 209 and kidnaped six.

The U.S. Command reported a 1,000-man increase in American troop strength in Vietnam, bringing the total to 537,500. Another 35,000 U.S. Navy men are stationed off shore on ships of the 7th Fleet.

CHARGED

Cab driver James Iverson, 29, was charged with murder in the strangulation deaths of Carol Mayers, 25, and Diane Bill, 18, in Grand Forks, N.D. Their partly clothed bodies were found in a small apartment.

3 Danish Artists Bank $12 Now For Use In 2253

Copenhagen, Denmark (AP) — By banking the equivalent of $12 now, three Danish artists said Thursday that compound interest will provide $800 million by the year 2253 to be used for a grand building project.

Composer Eric Andersen, poet George Brecht and painter Arthur Koepcke said they will deposit the money in a savings bank, put the bank book in the vaults of Copenhagen's Royal Library for the next 284 yards and 201 days.

They said the money will be used for a huge building complex with a computer to be used for any conceivable purpose, public "love centers" all over Copenhagen with all imaginable comforts, and office buildings made of polarized glass.

Some Americans Protest On Thanksgiving Day

By The Associated Press

While most Americans observed the three-century-old Thanksgiving Day traditions by feasting and giving thanks, some protested and fasted in the fashion of the 1960s.

Leaflets handed out by welfare protesters at the Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade in Manhattan declared, "Thanks for nothing."

At the height of the colorful, brassy parade, which 2.5 million people lined the streets to watch, the protesters attempted to stretch a banner across the parade route.

'Empty Plates'

Explaining their actions, the group said in a statement, "We share the country's and parade's desire to make children laugh but when this spectacle is over, many thousands of poor children in this city and country will face empty plates."

Similarly 10 Albany College students and an adviser ended a four-day fast Thursday designed to call attention to hunger, and in Beverly Hills, Calif., 10 members of the War Resisters League fasted in front of a posh restaurant, charging that "Americans are gluttons while millions starve."

The poor in many places got special attention, however, as did some 5,000 needy persons in the Bowery who were fed by the Salvation Army and Volunteers of America in New York.

VISTA Girls Help

Near Mannington, W.Va., at the site of explosions which trapped 78 men in a coal mine, two VISTA — Volunteers in Service to America — girls forewent their Thanksgiving dinner to pack lunches for scores of men who manned drills in attempts to reach the trapped miners.

In Colorado State Penitentiary, Dick Kraus, serving a term for forcible rape, donated $30 for a needy family in Canon City, the site of the prison.

Kraus, who earned the $30 at the rate of 25 cents a day for prison work, explained, "I have an idea of what it's like to have an empty holiday season."

Johnsons' Thanksgiving Traditional

Johnson City, Tex. (AP) — President and Mrs. Johnson observed Thanksgiving in the old, tradition-shrouded way with family and friends around and a sort of double-dish turkey dinner.

There was ordinary turkey, and wild turkey, too.

This time, the family circle included grandchildren. And that made it something special.

LBJ Drives

The President and Mrs. Johnson and their daughters, Luci Nugent and Lynda Robb, motored 15 miles to Fredericksburg to attend 9 a.m. services at St. Barnabas Episcopal Church. Johnson himself was driving the station wagon, and he packed in some of his staff and friends.

Afterward there were family pictures in the front yard of the LBJ Ranch.

And some friends and relatives were invited to come in around 6 p.m. But dinner was delayed until 7:30 or 8. For one thing, there had to be enough time for Luci to get to Austin, Tex., and back.

The Big Game

She had a ticket to the big football game, Texas University versus Texas A&M.

"Patrick would never forgive me if I didn't go to the game," she said while leaving church.

Patrick is her husband, an airman first-class on duty in Vietnam, with whom Luci and their 17-month-old son, Lyn, just had a reunion in Hawaii.

Lynda's husband, Marine Maj. Charles S. Robb, also is on duty in Vietnam. The major's month-old daughter, Lucinda, and her mother were here for the Thanksgiving festivities.

Nixon Changes Theme

Washington (UPI) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon has decided to change his inaugural theme — from "Bring Us Together" to "Forward Together."

The switch was announced Thursday by his inaugural chairman, J. Willard Marriott, who said Nixon believes the new wording better describes the aims and objectives of the incoming administration.

Marriott said the revised theme "is in keeping with the purposes outlined by the president-elect in his campaign and reflects the direction in which planning now is moving during this transition period."

Ike's Family, Nixon's Have Turkey Meal

Washington (UPI) — President-elect Richard M. Nikon visited former President Eisenhower Thursday and ate a hearty though inexpensive Thanksgiving dinner with the Eisenhower family at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

"We have a number of things to be thankful for, as do most Americans," Nixon said after emerging from his visit with Eisenhower. Ike, he said, was "50% better than when I saw him three weeks ago."

The 78-year-old general, recovering from his seventh heart attack, was unable to join the Nixon family for the traditional turkey dinner. But Ike picked up the tab — 70 cents a plate in accordance with Army regulations.

Nixon was accompanied by his wife, Pat, and their daughters, Tricia and Julie, along with David Eisenhower, the former president's grandson. David and Julie are to be married Dec. 22.

The Nixons had dinner with Eisenhower's wife, Mamie, and the family of John Eisenhower, Ike's son, in a private room on the fourth floor of the hospital.

The president-elect listed the things he was thankful for: "First the election, second the wedding and third and most importantly the remarkable recovery of General Eisenhower."

'Reformed' Church Premieres As Hebron's New Playhouse

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Hebron — It's a pretty sporty title for a building that has pews and stained glass windows: "The Playhouse."

A summer acquisition of Hebron Community Theatre, Inc., the former church is having its premiere performances in a new role. The script — somewhat removed from sermons and choir anthems— is the old-fashioned melodrama, "Curse You, Jack Dalton."

"For a couple of years we had been combing the countryside for a suitable building we could move here for theater use," said Mrs. Lloyd Cotter, past president and current sparkplug of the actors. "When the church already in Hebron was offered, it took us only four days to look, borrow and buy. The paying will take a little longer."

'Bargain Price'

Pleased that the edifice will remain in community service, St. Dunstan's Episcopal congregation agreed to a "bargain price" of $1,000. One business offer of triple that figure was rejected by local members and the Nebraska Diocese.

Moved from Tobias 13 years ago following several decades of service there, the church had been remodeled extensively at the new site. Services were held regularly until the membership dissolved this summer.

Seating 100, the building was nearly full for the first staging of the melodrama last Saturday. Additional performances are scheduled this Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m.

Remodeling Planned

"We have hopes for eventual remodeling, possibly reversing the stage and audience locations completely," said Mrs. Cotter. "But unfortunately, our wallet now isn't as big as our plans."

Booking most of their previous performances in the high school gymnasium, the members are pleased with improved acoustics of the small facility. A bonus is the Jaycees' occupancy of the basement — in exchange for yard work and other maintenance.

Rural mail carrier Hilmar Krueger is directing the current play, assisted by group president Jack Stewart. Cast members include Eleanor Rizek, Armida Sasek, Marlene Butler, Bill Coady, Judy McLaughlin and Superior "imports" Jim Cavanaugh and Mike Troshinski.

Obviously, the small stage will preclude such ambitious productions as the group's memorable "Oklahoma" of three years ago. And the mini-seating probably will force several stagings of each play — which isn't necessarily bad.

"It all ends too suddenly when you practice six weeks for something that lasts only one night," noted Mrs. Cotter. "This way the fun stretches out for several nights."

Hastings Man Found Guilty Of Murder

Brighton, Colo. . (AP) — A Hastings man was convicted Wednesday night of first degree murder in the slaying of a service station manager.

A seven-man, five-woman jury deliberated more than four hours before returning the verdict against Douglas Hervey, 20. He was sentenced to life in prison.

Hervey was convicted in the fatal shooting of Timothy Hallacy, 77, operator of a service station in Commerce City, outside Denver, during an apparent holdup attempt.

Dakota Man, 36, Facing Charges In Bank Robbery

Sioux City, Iowa (AP) — A South Dakota man was arrested here on federal bank robbery charges Wednesday, less than 24 hours after the $3,450 robbery of the Toy National Bank in downtown Sioux City.

Raymond Shroll, 36, of Brookings, S.D., was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner William J. Rawlings, who set preliminary hearings for Dec. 5. Bond was fixed at $50,000.

Shroll was arrested at 10:55 a.m. Wednesday in downtown Sioux City by FBI agent Paul C. Young of Omaha and Sioux City policeman Lt. Paul Gant.

Authorities said Shroll had a considerable sum of money in his possession when arrested.

The bank was robbed by a lone gunman Tuesday afternoon — the second time it has been robbed this year.

Sunderman was a student at Concordia College at Seward.

Authorities said the accident happened when the car driven by Sunderman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sunderman of rural Clarinda, struck the back of a truck driven by Delbert Madison, about 40, of Clarinda. Madison was not injured.

The roommate, Rodney Tunner 20, of Arcadia, Calif., was hospitalized here in good condition.

NU Scientists Study Control Of Greenbugs

A team of University of Nebraska scientists has outlined research that they will do as part of an inter-regional project aimed at controlling greenbugs.

Greenbugs severely damaged much grain sorghum in Nebraska last summer and attacked wheat the fall before.

Members of the committee are Dr. Earle Raun, chairman of the entomology department; Paul T. Nordquist, agronomist at the North Platte Station; Dr. Robert Staples, entomologist, Dr. Myron Brakke, federal research chemist; and Dr. David Wysong, plant pathologist.

The inter-regional research project is a result of a meeting of land grant college representatives from Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas, Arizona, South Dakota, and Colorado, plus the U.S. Department of Agriculture research center at Beltsville, Maryland.

The states represented all faced a severe problem last summer with the greenbug on sorghum —a phenomenon never before experienced.

The Nebraska team will start greenhouse research immediately to evaluate Nebraska milo varieties for potential resistance to the greenbug and to determine if the greenbug has a potential for transferring maize dwarf mosaic and barley yellow dwarf viruses from host plants to crops.

They also plan research on insecticides, both systemic and foliar, and will study the biology of the greenbug and of the predators that prey on it. Most of this work will be done in the field next summer.

NEBRASKA: Temperatures for the five-day period, Saturday through Wednesday, will average 3 to 6 degrees above normal. Minor changes are expected, then turning colder near the end of the period. Normal highs are near 40 and normal lows are 18 to 20. Precipitation will average less than one-quarter of an inch in the west to one-quarter to one-half inch in the east, occurring mostly about Tuesday.

KANSAS: For the five-day period, Saturday through Wednesday, temperatures will average 3 to 6 degrees above normal with minor changes until turning cooler near the end of the period. Normal highs are in the mid 40s in the northwest to upper 40s in the southeast. Normal lows are near 20 in the northwest to 30 in the southeast. Precipitation will average less than one-quarter inch in the west and around one-half inch in the east, occurring mostly about the first of the week.

Summary of Conditions

A deep low pressure area is now centered over the central portion of Illinois and will move into northern Maine by Friday evening. A cold front has pushed southward from Canada and is now located from the central portion of Lake Superior to the northeastern corner of Nebraska and northwestward into northwestern North Dakota. This cold front by Friday evening will be along a line from southeastern Missouri to extreme northeastern Kansas and across eastern Nebraska to north central North Dakota.

Temperatures will show little change through Saturday except for slight warming over western Nebraska Saturday. The temperatures over eastern Nebraska and western Iowa will show little change even though the front will bring in slightly colder air, because of the increased sunshine.

Swine Research Center In Program Spotlight

Concord — Nebraska swine producers will have an opportunity at the 1969 area swine days to learn more about the swine housing-management research center at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station. The one-day educatinal programs will be held Jan. 28, 29, and 30 at Holdrege, Albion and Oakland, respectively.

This word comes from Bob Fritschen, NU area swine specialist, who is coordinating development of the new facility. Fritschen outlined progress on construction of the center, located in the state's prime swine-producing area, as follows:

—Constructon began in 1967 with the erection of two growing units and establishment of a sewage lagoon, well and bulk tanks.

—Two growing units occupied in January, 1968, with a second group of pigs put on test since that time.

—Bids let in the spring of 1968 for four more growing-finishing units which are now nearing completion.

—A maintenance-laboratory unit is in the process of being developed.

"Northeast Station personnel are pressing toward completion of this unit to coincide with completion of the four growing-finishing units now under construction," Fritschen commented.

The purpose of the swine housing-management research center is to study some of the aspects of confinement rearing of hogs, Fritschen explained.

Southwestern Co. Will Take Over Midwec Firm

Phoenix, Ariz. — The Midwec Corporation of Oshkosh and Scottsbluff has been purchased by the Southwestern Research and General Investment Co. of Phoenix.

Approximately $1.5 million in securities was involved in the acquisition, according to F. M. McCown, president of Southwestern.

Midwec's firm in Oshkosh makes telephone equipment for Western Electric, the Bell System and independent telephone companies. The Scottsbluff division produces capacitors for military and commercial use, supplying such companies as Sylvania, Raytheon, Honeywell, Sperry Flight and Xerox.

Omaha Proposes Five Fire Stations

Omaha (AP) — The Planning and Fire Departments in Omaha have presented a proposal calling for five new suburban fire stations.

Planning Director Alden Aust says the stations would provide protection for areas in the path of the city's future westward growth.

The proposal is an amendment to Omaha's fire station master plan.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

What's wrong with women? Well, we are not fool enough to try to answer that one, or even to admit the question exists. But, what's wrong with women lawyers? We can't answer that, either, but there is a woman lawyer who can — Doris L. Sassower, president of the New York Women's Bar Associaton.

The answer is that there are not enough of them — not enough women lawyers, that is. This is wrong because the reasons for it are wrong, according to Mrs. Sassower.

The plight of women lawyers is seen through all elements of the profession. For their population, women lawyers are far short throughout the government, the courts and private practice.

Throughout the nation as a whole, women lawyers are far fewer in number than they are in a lot of other countries, including some of the communist countries.

This failure, says Mrs. Sassower in a recent issue of "Trial" magazine, "reflects the current situation of American women generally. Only a negligible percentage of executive jobs are held by women.

"And although women are a majority of the population and of the electorate, the political status of women in our society has been described as one of the great disappointments of the 20th Century. No woman sits in the cabinet as she did in F.D.R.'s day; there is only one woman senator, and the number of women in the House of Representatives today is less than it was 10 years ago."

Then, the New York lawyer says that the thing that has held women lawyers back is "the basic difficulty of being a woman."

This, of course, refers to the woman's role as mother and housewife, a job that takes so much time it is often incompatible with the full-time practice of law. But Mrs. Sassower has a solution.

★

"The solution to this problem of women lawyers is the same as the solution to the problem for all working women. Remedial proposals have been current for many years: revision of the tax laws to permit deduction of home and child care — and development of government-aided child-care facilities."

Up to now, we haven't toally understood Mrs. Sassower but neither have we had any cause to take issue with her. But her statement of the problem and her suggested cure are two different things.

Our first point would be made in favor of non-working mothers. If the working wife or mother can deduct home and child care for income tax purposes, every woman should be able to do the same thing. This work is of equal value when done by a working or non-working mother or by a hired person.

This is just from a dollar-and-cents point of view, of course. The quality of such work would undoubtedly differ as between different people but the same price tag would apply to all. Secondly, who is going to figure out the dollar value of home and child care?

The government would be in a real fix here. Is doing dishes worth more or less when you have a dishwasher? Is it worth more to take care of a sick child than a well one? And a hamburger dinner should not be worth the same as a roast beef menu.

But the real and major obstacle to such a scheme is the inequity it would provide for the family whose wife and mother did not work. That family would receive no income tax credit for the work done in the home by that woman.

Mrs. Sassower has one further explanation for the lack of women lawyers. It is discrimination. She suggests that it is simply tougher for a woman to get ahead than a man and we suspect she is right on that count.

But a part of the reason is that a remarkable number of women hold marriage and the home in higher esteem than a career, thus making them a risk to rely upon in industry and the professions.

We don't know how fair that is but we rather hope it doesn't change too much too soon.

Carmichael Appears Ready For Departure

WASHINGTON — It now looks as if Stokely Carmichael, the black militant, is beating it out of the country before President-elect Nixon gets a chance to indict him.

Carmichael already has shipped all his furniture and belongings, including the carpets on the floors of his $70,000 Washington home, to the West African nation of Guinea.

Carmichael and his wife, the glamourous South African folk singer, Miriam Makeba, personally supervised the packing. There is every indication that they intend to follow.

☆ ☆ ☆

During the early 1960s, Carmicael studied Marxism in Guinea, which is considered the most pro-communist country in West Africa. He picked up many of his ideas on black power from Guinea's President Sekou Toure, who presented him with a long, flowing African robe. This has always been one of Carmichael's prize possessions.

The question of whether to indict Carmichael has been debated in our highest government councils. President Johnson wanted to act against Carmichael, who has preached both violation and sedition in the Negro ghettos. Over Hanoi radio, Carmichael also urged American soldiers to turn on their officers and to desert to the enemy.

Attorney General Ramsey Clark, however, argued that foreign witnesses who would come to the United States to testify against Carmichael would be hard to find in communistic countries. Recordings of Carmichael's broadcasts, of course, would be inadmissible.

He cautioned that an indictment of Carmichael might fail in court and lead to renewed public outrage over the alleged "leniency" of the federal judicial system. All that would be accomplished, he suggested, might be to make a martyr out of Carmichael in the ghettos.

Apparently Carmichael is less confident that the new Nixon administration will hold back an indictment and isn't staying around to find out.

☆ ☆ ☆

His departure should take some of the steam out of the violent and vociferous Black Panther party which Carmichael heads. He became prime minister of the Black Panthers after they broke their alliance with the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee.

"Do You Gentlemen Believe In The (Excuse Expression) Domino Theory?"

Some Example We Set!

It was rather disgusting and disheartening to read of the shutdown of the Youngstown, Ohio, public schools. Classes there have been dismissed for Thanksgiving and will not resume until Jan. 2. The closing was the result of lack of sufficient funds, brought on by voter defeat of a tax levy proposal.

Putting it bluntly, the city's school system is broke. We are not familiar with all the details of the situation but it is a rotten deal, any way you look at it. We complain about the younger generation but we do a lot of things to hurt it.

In Nebraska we struggle along with thousands of school districts, more than half of them unneeded, inefficient and unproductive. In Youngstown they close the schools for lack of money and in New York and elsewhere, the teachers go out on strike.

Now, if you think all of this just rolls off the kids' backs, you are sadly mistaken. Don't ever think for a minute that the elementary students are not aware of what is going on.

When they are shortchanged in their education, they know it. Whether they like school or not, they know what is happening. Their understanding is not so sophisticated as that of an adult but that may well be to their credit.

What they see is a simple case of hypocrisy. They see an educational system talked about in lofty terms but a performance that fails to live up to the talk. They see education as something the adults manipulate and argue about for their own personal advantage rather than the welfare of the child.

Is it any wonder that some of them grow up to be rather disillusioned with the adult world? Too often today, everything comes ahead of the child's welfare in our schools.

The Affluent Peasants

America's white middle class is without doubt the most maligned, harped-at group in the country. It is blamed for everything from racism to perpetuating the System to supporting the Establishment.

And now comes Whitney Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, who has defined the problem even further. He says it's the lower middle class that's causing all the trouble. For the most part he is correct, but he is guilty of overgeneralizing just a little.

Young calls the lower middle class "the affluent peasants," persons who a generation ago were taking part in violent sit-down strikes but who today are the ones most frightened by Negro progress in America. They voted for George Wallace, he said, but they "wouldn't know Karl Marx from Groucho's brother". The lower middle class isn't dangerous just because it comprises a majority. "It's because they're fanatics." He said that from fear of losing what they have so recently achieved they will go to any lengths.

Young called on the mass media to show the "affluent peasants" that they gain no social standing by being against Negro progress. The "in" thing these days is to be for such progress.

As he pointed out, "Negroes don't have any trouble moving in next door to a Rockefeller or a Ford if they have the money."

Most of this is correct, we think. And it's a shame, especially since the lower middle class (as well as many other classes) were once in somewhat the same position as the Negro: trying to move up in society.

But the danger is that Young includes virtually all of the lower middle class, which is the same kind of thinking so often used against the white middle class — and the Negro. No one class or race has a monopoly on racism.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Conflict Between Young, Old In Demo Party; Dislodging Of McCormack Appears Unlikely

WASHINGTON — In remarking the fragmented Democratic party, the congressional piece is bound to have a prominent place. The Republicans on Nov. 5 were held to minimal gains and the Democrats control both Senate and House and the powerful committee chairmanships that have so much to do with the progress of legislation. Richard Nixon's failure to carry with him majorities of his own party is the first time this had happened to an incoming president since Zachary Taylor in 1848.

The fact is, however, that the congressional piece is split down the middle. On one side are the old standbys and on the other the young activists long restive under the shackles of seniority.

It is here that Vice President Hubert Humphrey can function most effectively. He knows Congress inside out with a direct and personal understanding of the rivalry and factionalism deeply embedded in the two majorities — nominal majorities in light of the southern dominance — in Senate and House. Determined to put new life into the Democratic National Committee, so long moribund, Humphrey can draw on such talented senators as Walter Mondale of Minnesota and Fred Harris of Oklahoma who contributed a lot to his campaign.

But the feeling is strong in light of past experience that the chairmanship is a full-time job. No senator or representative can give it sufficient concentration and particularly since the new chairman will have to start building from the ground up, deficit of at least $6,000,000, which when the bills are toted up probably will be closer to $10,000,000.

Finding a full-time chairman of knowledge and drive will be difficult. This is why there is renewed pressure on Lawrence F. O'Brien, who agreed to head the Humphrey campaign, to stay on past the deadline of Nov. 5 which he set for himself. When he went to work directing the Humphrey drive, O'Brien severed the tentative ties he had with a firm for a top executive position. The Kennedy faction has not been bashful about coming up with their own proposal for chairman — John J. Gilligan of Ohio who lost the Senate race to a Republican.

The next congressional election is only two years off and the division between the liberal-moderates and the old liners and the southerners can mean trouble for the Democrats in that contest. The image of an old, barnacle-ridden ship of state is hardly one to inspire younger voters. At the helm in the House is Speaker John W. McCormack looking like a troubled ghost of Christmas past. Of his 77 years, 40 have been spent on the seniority escalator that carried him to his present eminence.

The mutterings of revolt are louder this time over the obduracy of what the young activists feel is the entrenched and resistant Old Guard. The talk among the bolder spirits is of sidetracking McCormack when Democratic House members hold their caucus and replacing him with one of the activists. The name most often mentioned is Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona.

But Rep. Richard Bolling of Missouri, whose recent book, "Power in the House," contains a broadside attack on McCormack's feeble, wavering leadership, would not go along. While the Democratic Study Group claims a membership up to 140 out of 243 Democrats in the House, the hard core willing to stand up and be counted is perhaps 60 to 70. In short, the votes are not there to move McCormack out of the speaker's chair.

A crafty player of the seniority game, cultivating the Boston-Austin axis as it is known in the House, McCormack at the end of the last session made some strategic appointments to the powerful Ways and Means Committee. Omar Burleson of Texas, James C. Corman of California and William J. Green of Philadelphia all were rewarded, and that fine geographical distribution speaks well for McCormack's astuteness in holding his power.

But if McCormack cannot be dislodged, the DSG does intend to move on Democratic members whom Bolling calls Republicans with a southern accent. High on this list is Rep. John R. Rarick of Louisiana who, according to the DSG, spoke around the country for the National Youth for (George C.) Wallace organization.

IRENE C. KUHN

'Diplomat Among Warriors'

NEW YORK — President-elect Nixon made a wise choice in appointing Robert ("Diplomat Among Warriors") Murphy his transition-period foreign-policy adviser. He would do well to make the temporary appointment permanent and name Mr. Murphy his secretary of state.

The career diplomat retired in 1959 and wrote his memoirs five years later. He has been a valued member of industry ever since. Mr. Murphy is known to feel he may be "too old" for the secretary's job. He is 74, not old by today's standards, even with the continuing propaganda about the "youth revolution." Much of this seeming preoccupation with youth is materialistic only, to capture the teenage dollar which is being spent prodigally for everything from hippie beads to motorcycles.

Mr. Murphy is exactly the kind of man we need to head State, which has been too long under the direction of advocates of the soft line in foreign policy, to our disadvantage and loss. He was ambassador to Japan and Belgium, and served in high posts in other countries. His long experience a broad taught him the hard realities of diplomatic life. He saw cynicism and self-interest triumph time after time over American naivete and generosity in international affairs. He knows every trick and truth in the book. And the Foreign Service for thirty years was his life in an intense and special way.

☆ ☆ ☆

He had studied law and been admitted to the bar in the District of Columbia. He had received an offer from a big law firm in New York. While he was considering this, he took the examination for the Consular Service more out of curiosity to see if he could pass it than for any other reason. Years later, he recalled that he had planned to remain only a short time in diplomacy. However, he married about this time and the notion of a honeymoon trip to Europe, where he and his bride had first met, appealed to the young couple. They departed happily in 1921 for his first post in Switzerland. His annual salary was $2,500.

The law student who took the job Murphy had been offered in the New York firm was soon making $40,000 a year.

"When I learned about this I did not envy him, for by that time I had found my niche in life," Mr. Murphy said recently.

For twenty years he had a conventional career in the State Department, advancing through grades from clerk to counselor of embassy at Paris. These were years of routine assignments, discipline and hard work. During these two decades, however, Murphy was able to observe the vast changes that World War I had produced in Europe. And no American had a better chance to size up the budding Nazi movement. When Mr. Murphy was posted to Munich, six months after entering the Consular Service, Hitler had just begun to make that city the spawning ground for his Nationalist Socialist movement. Murphy met Hitler and other members of the Nazi high command while they were still obscure agitators. In fact, the Murphys lived across the street from Hitler during the four years they spent in Munich.

It was in 1940 that the nature of Murphy's work changed. After the defeat of France, President Roosevelt sent him to Africa as his personal representative. In the succeeding four years, his duties expanded greatly. He made preparations for the Allied landings in Africa; he negotiated the arrangements that brought French West Africa into the war on the Allied side; he did numerous other important jobs.

He was General Eisenhower's political adviser in French Africa and his success in dealing with British, French and other foreigners, and in getting along with people equalled Ike's. This personal attibute was recognized by assignments to Italy during the invasion; in the campaign for the final conquest of Germany and afterwards in Berlin and the American zone of occupation.

He dealt with the imperious De Gaulle and always came off first in their encounters. Murphy's knowledge of the still imperious De Gaulle, of the Mediterranean area, and its overlords' rivalries, is as profound as his understanding of Continental Europe. He has expert knowledge of Asia, too, for as first post-war American ambassador to Japan and a negotiator in the Korean armistice agreements he came to grips with the Oriental mind.

In all these duties and many more, combining skill and experience in dealing with diplomats and the military, Mr. Murphy will be invaluable to the incoming administration. President-elect Nixon should exert every effort to persuade Robert Murphy to serve in his cabinet as secretary of state.

It's Knute Rockne Versus The Pilgrims

NEW YORK — Only three days ago a shook-up parent of a girl child in second grade and a boy child in fourth dropped in to tell me the "now" legend of Thanksgiving.

In an idle moment the father had asked his offspring to tell him the history and true meaning of Thanksgiving. The boy instantly said that Thanksgiving had been invented by Knute Rockne at Notre Dame when Notre Dame won all its football games one year.

The father, jolted to the soles of his loafers, asked his heir where he had ever heard of Knute Rockne and his invention of Thanksgiving.

"Gee, Dad, I've seen the life story of Knute Rockne on teevee three times in the last four months," Junior explained. "Boy, he grooved! And Buddy Johnes down the block told me about the team thinking up Thanksgiving."

"Sis, what do you know about Thanksgiving?" Dad asked his daughter.

"They have it so people can parade. And ride in big floats. Daddy, can I be a drum majorette when I grow up? Please, Daddy, can I?" Sis begged. "And turn somersaults in the street?"

"That's all right for a girl's Thanksgiving," Junior sneered, "but I'm gonna grow up to be a big football player on teevee on Thanksgiving. And then you'll be proud of me, won't you, Dad?"

☆ ☆ ☆

The shell-shocked parent, who had believed all his life that Thanksgiving had something to do with the Pilgrims, Plymouth Rock and gratitude to God for a good harvest, at once began the re-education of his children.

"But it's tough going," he said. "They're both skeptical. It seems they've never seen any Pilgrims on teevee. It's a funny thing that a kid who doesn't believe in Santa Claus any longer has a sublime faith in Knute Rockne. And that a little girl finds it hard to swallow the story about the first Thanksgiving when the Pilgrims didn't have any floats or drum majorettes.

"It wasn't until yesterday, when we had three television sets at home tuned to three different parades and football games, that I finally realized that my kids and their contemporaries quite naturally associate Thanksgiving Day with football, parades, bands and drum majorettes. And not with the Founding Fathers and Thanksgiving for a touch-and-go existence on a bleak shore of a country not yet a nation.

"But I'm not licked! I'm in there pitching about the Pilgrims. And I'm going to keep it up," Paterfamilias Americanus declared as he rose to go. "Although I got kind of discouraged yesterday at the dinner table when Junior looked at the turkey and absent-mindedly said, 'Please pass the ball.' "

☆ ☆ ☆

Oddly enough, to one of my generation — brought up on the Pilgrim Thanksgiving — there was substantial comfort in all the above. There has been a gradual diminution or down-grading of Thanksgiving — this nation's very own, peculiarly own holiday — since World War II.

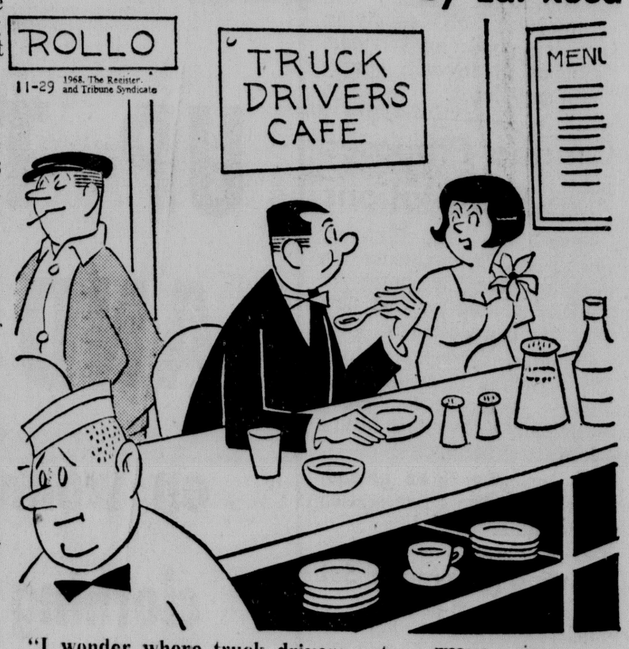

It has been leapfrogged in favor of the every increasing commercialization of Christmas. Christmas decorations and sales now appear the day after Labor Day, where they once began after Thanksgiving. The materialization that is destroying the true meaning of Christmas has already half-obliterated Thanksgiving.

In the pressure to increase Yuletide sales, Thanksgiving has been shunted aside, reduced to a secondary place on the calendar, and now is largely sacred to "traditional" football games (another form of commercialism).

On the other hand, it may be that the only thing that keeps Thanksgiving alive and fairly well in the United States is football. If it weren't for those games, the parades and the drum majorettes, Thanksgiving might have all but disappeared in the past quarter-century.

Yugoslav Says Russia Going Back To Czarist Imperialism

© New York Times Service

New York — In the view of Milovan Djilas, the former Yugoslav Communist leader, the nature of the Soviet Union's challenge to the West has been significantly altered by a re-emergence of czarist imperialist ambitions and a decline of Communist revolutionary ideology.

In an interview with editors and reporters of the New York Times, Djilas said that he saw little difference between Soviet policies today in Eastern Europe and the Eastern Mediterranean and the policies of the 19th century Russian imperialism.

Djilas, who was once the political heir to President Tito early in the 1950s, said that while the official motivaton of Soviet policy abroad was communism, he was certain that the Soviet leaders did not regard this slogan any more seriously than the czars had believed in orthodoxy.

'Going Back'

"Russia," he said, "is going back to the classical form of Russian military imperialism, is less and less an ideological power and may in the future become an economic power."

Djilas, whose analysis of a decline of communism in his book "The New Class" contributed to ideological unrest in Eastern Europe, said he believed the United States might find it easier to co-exist with the Soviet Union as a traditional imperialist power than as a revolutionary society, assuming some conditions were fulfilled.

Djilas arrived in the United States Oct. 13 to accept a fellowship at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. He plans to return to Belgrade Dec. 11.

The interview was conducted at the offices of the Times in English, which Djilas learned by self-study in the Sremesksa Mitrovica prison outside Belgrade. He served two terms in the prison, totaling nine years, after he broke with the Communist Party and rejected communism in favor of democratic socialism. Djilas spent three years in the same prison in the 1930s under the pre-war royalist regime.

Imprisoned

Djilas held key party and government positions in Yugoslavia until he became convinced in the early 1950s that communism as a system had degenerated into a budeaucratic tyranny. He accepted imprisonment in 1956 rather than recant. He was conditionally released in 1961, rearrested a year later and freed in December, 1966.

During the interview, Djilas dwelled at length on what he termed a decadence of communism in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe. He emphasized a belief that in the long run a reformist movement could not be halted, though he held out little hope for the immediate future.

The Soviet bureaucracy, Djilas asserted, is a "continuation of the czarist bureaucracy."

"The fact is we now see that a revolution cannot change a nation, its tendencies and qualities and traits," he said. "Revolution only changes the form of power and property but not the nation itself."

Rebels Captured

Rangoon (UPI) — Forty-one rebels were captured by government forces, the official Burmese press reported. It said the Shan guerillas included a Nationalist Chinese colonel.

THE DAY JFK WAS SHOT:

Johnson Moved Quickly To AF1

Then he called his brother Ted and asked him to break the news to "mother and our sisters." It could not be told to the father: Joseph P. Kennedy was convalescing from an extensive cerebral hemorrhage.

When Malcolm Kilduff was admitted to the hideaway, Mr. Johnson was sitting on an ambulance cart, his legs dangling.

Kilduff swallowed hard and said: "Mr. President . . ."

The tall Texan brought his head up sharply; Mrs. Johnson turned as she was about to sit, and held a hand against her mouth. This was the first time Lyndon Baines Johnson had been so addressed, the first time he knew that he was the thirty-sixth President of the United States.

"Mr. President," Kilduff began again, "I have to announce the death of President Kennedy to the press. Is it all right with you?"

Johnson hopped off the cart and jiggled a hand in his trouser pocket. "No, Mac," he said. "I think we had better get out of here and get back to the plane before you announce it. We don't know whether this is a worldwide conspiracy," Mr. Johnson said, quoting Emory Roberts and Clinton Hill, "whether they are after me as they were after President Kennedy."

Showing shock Kilduff thanked the President and went back to discuss the matter with Roy Kellerman. Kellerman said he would feel better if they flew Mr. Johnson at once to the White House, where he could be given the utmost protection.

Air Force One was a sealed edifice with wings. It had brand-new highly sophisticated communications equipment, some of which was directly related to the Bagman and his nuclear-kickoff "football." Air Force Two, on which the Vice Pesident had arrived, did not have this equipment.

The President asked Kenny O'Donnell, "How about Mrs. Kennedy?" O'Donnell responded, "She will not leave the hospital without the President."

Mrs. Johnson nodded approvingly when her husband said that he would not go back without Mrs. Kennedy and the body of her husband. O'Donnell excused himself and left. He wanted to get Mrs. Kennedy away from Trauma One before the casket arrived.

The Secret Service was, to a man, unsentimental. They advised Johnson to get aboard Air Force One at once and to take off for Washington. Johnson was shocked. He asked where Mrs. Kennedy and the casket would go. "Air Force Two," they said.

If the oath of office had occurred to the new President, he did not mention it, for the same reason he would not depart alone on Air Force One — it would be like a precipitous power grab. The Constitution of the United States is explicit: "Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation."

Agent Lem Johns went out to requisition unmarked automobiles for the movement to Love Field, two miles away. The new President did not want to have his wife risk her life with him, so he ordered her to ride in another vehicle.

When the cars were ready the party went out at top walking speed. To keep up, Mrs. Johnson had to run between Secret Service agents who were fanning out ahead, with some walking backward. The President jumped into the back seat of the lead car, which had Chief of Police Jesse Curry as driver, and slouched as low as a big man can. Youngblood was beside him. Mrs. Johnson was shoved into the second car, another group into the third. Malcolm Kilduff hurried back to make arrangements for the death announcement.

Cars of the curious were parked askew all over the hospital grounds, and the three automobiles followed each other over sidewalks, open fields, to Harry Hines Boulevard.

☆ ☆ ☆

Vernon Oneal and two assistants rolled the four hundred-pound casket on a carriage down corridors to Trauma One. Mrs. Kennedy did not whimper. She studied the gleaming bronze sides, handles, and convex lid and didn't flinch.

With the brains of the President still oozing from the massive hole in his head, nurse Hutton had lifted the body by the neck, and wrapped sheets around it. A plastic mattress cover was placed in the casket, so that the edges hung over the sides. Then the nude body of the President, covered with other sheets, was lifted inside. The plastic was folded over him and the lid was closed.

☆ ☆ ☆

When Lyndon Johnson got aboard Air Force One, a TV set was the first sound he heard inside. The President shhh'd everyone, to hear anything new about the assassination. A commentator said Mr. Kennedy had been pronounced dead; the shot came apparently from a school book building; the police had clues to the assassin and were looking for a suspect; Vice Pdesident Johnson had left Parkland Hospital but no one knew his whereabouts.

The President left the television set to instruct stewards to hold the private bedroom for Mrs. Kennedy's use. However, Mr. Johnson quickly discovered there was no other place from which to telephone privately and he signaled the communications shack he would be using the bedroom phone. He wanted to convey his sympathies to Robert Kennedy; he also wanted to ask the attorney general for a legal opinion on when to take the oath of office as President.

When news of the death had been flashed, the press demanded details. They asked the Parkland Hospital doctors who had attended the President to be summoned.

With four of the doctors facing them from the stage of the nurses' classroom, a hundred journalists with no time for tact fired questions. It was agreed that they would be answered by Dr. Kemp Clark and Dr. Malcolm Perry. Neither had experience in these matters; neither had turned the body of the President over to examine it for wounds; neither had autopsy experience.

(The doctors were to complain bitterly that they were misquoted or quoted out of context. In truth, they were incompetent to discuss the wounds because they had no knowledge of the crime, the scene of it, the trajectory of projectiles, or whether wounds could be called entrance or exit. They could have drawn up a preliminary draft of treatment and given it to Dr. George Burkley, the President's physician. Burkley could not discuss the President's wounds with competence at the Bethesda autopsy.)

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

We are all getting ready for Christmas around here. The Brownies have been making things. "Brownies are helpful, especially around the house."

That is in the Brownie code.

They are led in their endeavors by the Brownie Leader. She expects me to live up to the code, too.

"While you are downtown, get me some more colored construction paper and some paste."

I said: "I am not going downtown."

"Well, could you?" she asked. "It's for the Brownies."

☆ ☆ ☆

Single rats become surly, lacking the tranquilizing bliss of marriage. So says a scientist. He made his rats stay single. It wasn't their idea.

Rats know what's good for them. If you let them run loose, they begin pinching waitresses in the taverns. And before you know it, they are married and no longer surly.

☆ ☆ ☆

"If you're going to be surly about it, I'll go downtown and get it myself," said the Brownie Leader.

"Me surly?" I asked. "How can you say that?" (A rat maybe. But not a surly rat. Ask any scientist.)

The brownies are making place cards for their mamas.

At Christmas dinner, if people don't know where to sit, they can look at the place cards and find out.

The Brownies wear the Brownie uniforms. A chatty bunch of little chicks.

When the Brownie Leader can't stand it any longer, she holds up her hand.

☆ ☆ ☆

All the Brownies must hold up their hands, too. And shut up.

It is known as "The Brownie Silence."

I said: "Maybe I'll run downtown and have lunch."

"Are you going to have a drink with your friends?" she asked.

"Maybe one to keep the chill off," I said. "You don't have to make it sound like an orgy."

It is a blessed time of year. Among our blessings we count that I am A Man Who Has Everything — the papers are full of ads for me.

"I can't think of anything to buy for you," she said. "Why don't you look around while you're downtown and let me know."

There's an elegant little pill box being sold by a New York jeweler at a fantastic price. Keeps your aspirin dry.

It is for The Man Who Has Everything. Including the common cold.

One year I got an electric cocktail mixer. I am convinced the best mixing bowl for the common martini is a Chinese earthen pot. It keeps the stuff frosty.

The electric job was given to me because it was for a Man Who Had Everything.

Not so. I have the mixing bowl, but I keep running out of gin, Max.

There is no Woman Who Has Everything. Advertisers do not insult ladies by even suggesting it.

It is well known that ladies have nothing. Nothing fit to wear anyway. "I wouldn't wear it to a dog fight," my grandma used to say, summing up her wardrobe for my grandfather.

Come Christmas, ladies can think of a lot of things they haven't got. And intend to get, by John.

☆ ☆ ☆

Now is the time the scissors are at work at the breakfast table. "Did you see this lovely waste basket? Only $10." Snip. "I've been dying to get rid of that old thing beside my desk."

"I'll run down and get the Brownie stuff now," I said. "I'll probably stay down for lunch." "Don't drink it," she said. "Who me?" I asked. In the most unsurly way you can imagine.

French Labor Men Map Strategy Against Austerity

Paris (UPI) — France's powerful labor organizations held urgent consultations Thursday to map strategy against President Charles de Gaulle's save-the-franc austerity program.

Labor circles expressed fears the belt-tightening program would mean higher prices and more unemployment.

The Communist General Confederation of Workers (CGT), the nation's biggest labor organization, and the Socialist French Democratic Confederation of Labor (CFDT) readied a campaign against effects of austerity which could cut into their membership gains of last June.

The consultations were not expected to produce any solid union "action plan" for at least a few days.

De Gaulle, whose prestige has been tarnished by the current monetary crisis, already has blamed the threat to the franc on students and workers, who paralyzed the nation's economy for a month last spring.

Economists viewed the paralysis — and the average 13% across-the-board labor increases which ended it — as a major cause for the world's loss of confidence in the franc.

In its first comment on De Gaulle's stand, the French Communist Party poliburo labeled as "a lie" De Gaulle's contention that the monetary crisis was the result of the May labor troubles.

"It is a lie that cannot resist any analysis," the party said in a brief communique. "The real origin of the crisis is the search for profits at any cost and no matter by what the means and the crushing unproductive expenditures of the imperialist powers."

The CFDT already has publicly demanded government guarantees that the austerity program will not increase unemployment, already running at an explosive 500,000 — about 2.5% of the labor force. In addition they called on the government to freeze all prices.

De Sade Book Will Be Seized

Rome (AP) — The Rome state attorney ordered the seizure Thursday of the Marquis de Sade book "The 120 Days of Sodom" on grounds it was an obscene publication.

The book was printed by the Larcadia publishing house of Rome.

The publisher was charged with obscene publication and contempt of religion.

French Loss Believed Higher Than Reported

Paris (AP) — The Bank of France reported Thursday official reserve losses of $174.8 million for the seven-day period ending Nov. 21 — a figure that is much lower than the estimates of unofficial sources here.

The Nov. 15-21 period was at the height of the international speculation that nearly carried away the parity of the French franc.

The bank's report indicated to financial experts that the flight of capital had been absorbed almost entirely by the remains of the $1.3-billion international swaps credit France drew July 10.

Unofficial estimates had put France's gold and dollar losses in the seven days at a much higher figure.

Pierre Rinfret, an economic adviser to President-elect Richard M. Nixon, said Nov. 18 that Bank of France officials had told him the outflow was up to $400 million for Nov. 14-15 alone.

Le Monde's economic editor reported earlier this week that the speculative outflow from France had amounted to a billion dollars since Nov. 14, the French national bank's last reporting period.

The bank reported reserve losses of $178.4 million for the week ending Nov. 14.

The bank's report Thursday put official gold and dollar reserves at $3,819,000,000, an officially reported drop of almost $3 billion in French reserves since last May.

German Export Bill Passes

Bonn, Germany (AP) — West Germany's parliament passed Thursday a draft law designed to cut back the country's huge export surplus and to assist weaker currencies, especially the French franc.

The measures approved a call for a four per cent tax on goods West Germany exports abroad and cut taxes on goods imported into the country by the same percentage.

To become law, the bill still has to pass the upper house.

Diplomacy In Paris Defies Euclidean Geometry

© New York Times Service

By PAUL HOFMANN

Paris — American, Vietnamese and French officials are grappling with a problem of diplomatic geometry that defies Euclid's theorems — how can an international conference be at the same time four-sided, two-sided and triangular?

As delegates of the belligerents in Vietnam and their Paris hosts start discussing arrangements for broadened peace talks, they grope for non-Euclidean formulas of calculated ambiguity. Their efforts may look as frivolous as a charade, but the Parisian ground rules they are trying to work out will have an influence on how long the fighting in Vietnam continues.

The present procedural squabble on description and organization of the expanded Vietnam parley is over the shape of the conference table, or tables, and over name plates, flags on car fenders, license plates, invitations — and even refreshments.

The United States, North Vietnam, the Saigon regime and the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam, or Viet Cong, are henceforth to participate in the Paris peace conference. So far, only U.S. and Hanoi representatives talked to each other in the parley, which began on May 13.

As seen from Washington and Saigon, the new phase that is about to start remains a two-sided affair. The North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong have kept insisting during the last few weeks that they couldn't accept anything less than a four-sided conference. And Radio Hanoi declared that the war in Vietnam might really be ended only by three-cornered agreement.

The geometrical squabbles in Paris stem from the fact that in the Vietnam war one man's ally is the other man's stooge.

Hanoi and its Viet Cong allies have enriched the French language, coining the term "Americo-fantoches" (American Puppets) for the Saigon regime. The two Communist negotiating groups allow that they would sit down with delegates from Saigon in the same room, although they "represent nobody."

Conversely, the U.S. and the Saigon regime officially view the Viet Cong as just an appendage of Hanoi, an artificial creation that under no circumstances could be recognized as an autonomous military or political force.

To press their claim that the Viet Cong controls most of South Vietnam, Hanoi's and the Front's teams in Paris demand a four-sided conference table, or four tables in a square pattern. The Front representatives would also like to have their delegation's own name plate, and fly their own flags on cars with diplomatic license plates — just like the envoys of a legitimate government.

So far, American and North Vietnamese negotiators have talked to each other across a rectangular conference table. Now, round or triangular tables are also being suggested to play down the role of one or the other of the newly participating teams.

There is also the question whether the Viet Cong delegates should be invited separately to the enlarged conference sessions, and by whom.

At the Majestic Hotel near the Arc de Triumphe, where the first 28 sessions were held, the American and North Vietnamese delegations had separate bars. Towards summer they started mingling and established confidential contacts in what became known as diplomatic tea breaks.

Are Saigon and Viet Cong delegates to have their separate bar facilities? They may need them, because either of the two groups threatens to walk out of the conference room whenever a member of the other camp takes the floor.

Network Musicians' Strike Over

New York (AP) — A slim vote in favor of accepting new contract terms Thursday ended a 28-day strike of musicians against the three major radio and television networks.

The vote conducted Wednesday in New York, Miami and Los Angeles favored acceptance of the two-year contract by a count of 270 to 263. Some 800 musicians were involved in the strike against the National Broadcasting Co., the American Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System which began Oct. 30.

Staff musicians, a central issue in the strike, were granted a raise in their base pay to $280.70, up $23, and an hourly overtime rate raise to $14.90.

The American Federation of Musicians, AFL-CIO, has sought weekly pay raises of staff musicians totaling $103.08 in a three-year contract.

Previously, it had rejected a network offer of $20 per week and identical pay raise after 18 months.

Water Geysers Are Unexplained

Marshall, Mich. (UPI) — Geysers of water propelled by underground gas erupted on the outskirts of this southern Michigan city Thursday. A gas explosion in one house caused evacuations by more than a dozen families in the area.

The Calhoun County sheriff's office said the cause of the mysterious eruptions was unknown. There had been no oil or gas drilling operations within 12 miles of the area, they said.

John Lennon Let Off Easy On British Marijuana Charge

London (AP) — Beatle John Lennon's habit of scribbling his million-dollar songs on old envelopes and scraps of paper led to his conviction Thursday on a drugs charge. The pop musician was fined the pound equivalent of $360 for possessing marijuana.

It was the first trial or conviction on drugs or any other charge against any of the world-famed pop group, and Lennon was described in court as "an artist of note and integrity" who had "cleansed himself" of drugs.

The trouble was, said the Beatle's lawyer Martin Polden, Lennon never threw anything away because the music or lyrics for a new song hit might be scrawled on it.

Left Overs

And when Lennon's belongings were sent from his country home to the London apartment he shared with his Japanese girl friend Yoko Ono, they contained a supply of marijuana and traces of the drugs from the days when he openly took narcotics, Polden said.

Yoko was cleared of the marijuana charge but Lennon pleaded guilty to having enough "pot" in the apartment to make about 40 cigarettes, worth $24 on the black market.

"There was no question of either of them indulging," Lennon's lawyer contended. Magistrate John Phipps accepted the explanation, and warned Lennon that if he faced a drug charge again, he could get a year in jail and a $600 fine.

Lennon, sitting quietly behind his granny spectacles and brushing his long hair from his eyes, admitted through his lawyer that he had used drugs in the past But said he had given them up after he was converted to Oriental philosophy and religion.

Dogs Used

Scotland Yard used dogs to sniff out the drug when they raided the couple's apartment Oct. 18, the prosecution said. They found traces of marijuana in a cigarette rolling machine and an empty film tin, and 219 grains of it in an envelope and in a binoculars case.

Dressed in a black velvet suit and white necktie, Lennon himself hardly spoke during the 20-minute hearing, but he said "thank you" to the magistrate after the fine was announced. When he left the dock, Yoko, wearing a billowing white blouse and black slacks, threw her arms around him with a smile.

Both Lennon and Yoko — who looked wan and tired after losing the baby she and Lennon were expecting last week — pleaded innocent to another charge of trying to prevent police from searching the apartment. The charge was dropped.

10-Year-Old Girl Expects A Baby

Antwerp, Belgium (AP) — A newspaper reported Thursday that a 10-year-old girl is expecting a baby has been admitted to a maternity hospital.

It said police were investigating. Police and hospital authorities refused comment.

A 9-year-old girl in Mexico gave birth to a child a few years ago.

The cucumber, now grown extensively in many countries, was originated in northern India.

Thanksgiving Dreary Across Bulk Of Nation

By The Associated Press

Dreary, clammy Thanksgiving Day weather spilled heavy rains, sleet and snow over a wide area in the nation Thursday, increasing threats of major flooding.

A rapidly developing storm moved across eastern Missouri and to the northwest of the storm path, snow fell. By midmorning snow accumulations in Paola and Waverly in Kansas amounted to 3 inches. Most sections of Missouri reported 2 inches or more. The snow and rain created hazardous driving conditions for those on Thanksgiving holiday trips as roads and highways became slippery and slushy.

Snow mixed with sleet created hazardous travel conditions also in north central Missouri, parts of Iowa and northern Illinois. An all-day-and-night rain in the Chicago area threatened to flood viaducts, basements and other low-lying areas. Travelers from downtown Chicago to O'Hare International Airport were urged to leave about 30 minutes early to catch planes since arrival and departure areas were congested because of heavy downpours.

Drenched

Rains totaling more than 6 inches drenched Tennessee from the Mississippi River to the Cumberland Mountains and threatened a major flood on the Harpeth River near Nashville. Residents of farms and new subdivisions in the Harpeth area were ready for temporary evacuations. Scottsville, Tenn., reported 6.3 inches of rain in 24 hours and Lexington, Tenn., recorded 6 inches.

The heavy rainfall also caused some flooding in eastern Arkansas and northern Mississippi.

The strong winds that spiraled counterclockwise around the low pressure center in southern Illinois spread rain from the mid-Mississippi Valley and the Ohio Valley across the Great Lakes region to the Northeast. Other brisk winds swirled snow across the eastern plains into the western sections of the Midwest.

Freezing rain coated highways from northeastern New York to New England with a slick coating and travel was dangerous. Freezing rain was reported in the Albany, N.Y., area and in the valleys of southeastern New York.

No Fatalities

Massachusetts state police said some 40 automobiles were involved in separate accidents in two eastern counties, but no fatalities were reported. There were two six-car crashes on Interstate 91 in Massachusetts.

In the Midwest, Peoria, Ill., recordded 1.22 inches of rain in six hours and Grosse Ile Naval Air Station near Detroit, Mich., had 1.17 inches in a similar period.

A snow cover of 1 inch was common from eastern Kansas to northern Missouri. Kansas City, Mo., had 1 inch of snow in six hours and Oklahoma also measured 1 inch in an earlier six-hour period.

Snow fell also in the central Rocky Mountains where a 1-to-4 inch cover extended from central Colorado to central Wyoming.

Violent Winds Lash Portions Of SE Alaska

Ketchikan, Alaska (AP) — Violent winds, gusting up to 100 miles per hour, toppled three communications towers, broke windows and swamped small boats in the harbor here Thursday.

Power was lost in many parts of Ketchikan and in nearby portions of Southeast Alaska early Thursday. At mid-morning electric service was operating sporadically.

The radio-television tower for station KTKN, more than 100 feet high, crashed into a house and broke into pieces. There were no injuries. Two towers operated by the Alaska Communications System also were blown down.

The Weather Bueau at Natlakatla on Annette Island, 20 miles southwest of here reported steady winds of about 55 miles per hour and gusts up to 100 miles per hour would continue until midafternoon.

Numerous boats were broken lose in the harbor and some small craft reportedly were swamped.

Ketchikan has about 6,500 residents.

Strike Threat Again Faced By New York

New York (UPI) — New York City, wracked by strikes or strike threats from a dozen different unions in the past three months, faced yet another strike Thursday — this one by employes of the giant utilities company, Consolidated Edison.

Con Ed's 20,000 employe members of the Utility Workers Union voted to reject a company offer, described by officials as the "most expensive contract ever entered into by Con Ed," and strike the company at 12:01 a.m. Sunday.

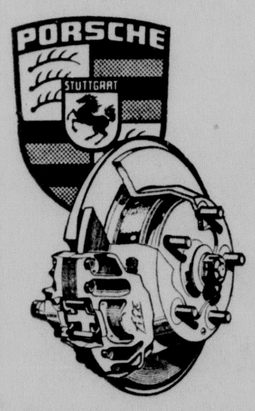

Con Ed serves about nine million persons in New York City and suburban Westchester County.

On Thursday, Charles F. Luce, chairman of the Con Ed board, said if the strike takes place the company would not be able to offer normal services, but he dicounted the possibility of a major blackout in the city like the one caused by a power failure in November of 1965.

Luce said the company would discontinue construction and installation of new gas, electric and telephone hookups and halt its billing service in the event of the strike. Telephone service also would be "somewhat slow," he said.

He said "essential services" to schools, hospitals, the city's subway system and office buildings would be maintained by 4,000 management personnel and 500 members of a union that represents Staten Island employes. This union, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, accepted the new contract offer.

Aircraft Hijacking Situation Unlikely To Change

Washington (AP) — The typical reaction to each new report of an airplane hijacking could be: "That's incredible. Why doesn't someone do something about it?"

The airlines, the federal government, aircraft crews and others would reply: "We're trying — we're trying hard. But after all is said and done — just what can we do?"

David D. Thomas, acting administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration, calls the situation frustrating. He noted to a reporter that the criminals involved in most airplane hijackings go to Cuba, where they are beyond the reach of U.S. law.

Dangerous

Furthermore, the nature of their crime is so dangerous as to inhibit resistance.

The airlines have advised their crews — and the crew members heartily agree — that it's better to obey the hijacker's head-for-Havana command than to risk gunplay that might inflict death or injury, or that might start a fire, cripple a plane, or bring about high-altitude explosive decompression of the aircraft.

Thomas said the FAA has conferred on possible solutions with a number of agencies and organizations, including the State Department and the FBI, with little or no success.

"We are really scratching for ideas," he said.

Wrote Law

Also continually checking on the skyjacking problem is the aviation subcommittee of the House Commerce Committee, which wrote the 1961 law making aircraft piracy a crime punishable by death.

A staff member said the subcommittee can be expected to look into the recent upsurge in hijackings when the new Congress convenes.

The staff aide said chairmun Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., feels the existing law is about as complete a legislative remedy as Congress can write.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., one of 54 persons aboard an airliner last July on which a gunman threatening a Cuban hijacking was talked out of his weapon, called after that experience for an agreement whereby hijackers who go to Cuba would be returned to this country for trial, and added:

"I see nothing else that can be done at this point."

Passage Offered

At the request of Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., the State Department offered through the Swiss government to provide free air transportation from Miami to aliens wishing to go to Cuba. A spokesman said Cuba has never responded to this offer, repeated several times.

Under State Department charter, an airliner flies to Cuba empty five days a week, to return to Miami Cubans who are released from their country.

This contract was arranged under an agreement with the Cuban government. Passengers cannot be permitted on the southbound flights without Cuba's consent.

The new crime of air piracy, set forth in the 1961 hijacking laws as the forcible seizure or attempted seizure of an airplane — can be punished with death, or with imprisonment from 20 years to life.

Wedding Planned IN suburbia

An event of Friday evening, Nov. 29, will be the marriage of Miss Toni Victor to Dr. Stephen Hilliard, which will take place at the United Ministeries of Higher Education chapel on the University of Nebraska campus.

Coming from out of town for the 6:30 o'clock ceremony will be Miss Victor's parents, Cmdr. and Mrs. William V. Victor of Los Angeles, Calif., and Dr. Hilliard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Hilliard of Framingham, Mass.

The bride-to-be is a senior at the University of Nebraska, where Dr. Hilliard is a member of the faculty in the department of English.

MISS LINDA SUE OLMSTEAD

Twin circles and Greek letter row on the University of Nebraska campus will have more than casual interest in the announcement made this morning by Mrs. Jeanne Olmstead of the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Linda Sue, to Robert Alan Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Wagner of Erie, Pa.

The wedding is planned for Feb. 14.

Miss Olmstead is attending the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta, and of Alpha Lambda Delta honorary.

Mr. Wanger, a former member of the Varsity basketball team, is a senior at the University of Nebraska this year. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity and of N Club.

For most, Thanksgiving 1968 is now just a memory of a sumptuous dinner and some interesting conversation with friends and family. Of course, there are reminders of the recently-passed holiday — students still have a few days of vacation remaining, and the upcoming week will undoubtedly see its share of turkey sandwiches! But the general observation this morning would have to be "how quickly life returns to normal!"

Included on our list of college students home for the holiday is Jerry Coy, son of Eastmont residents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Coy. Jerry arrived in the city last Saturday from Lafayette, Ind., where he attends Purdue University. Accompanying him during his visit has been Miss Sally Long of Indianapolis, also a student at Purdue.

Returning last Sunday from a three-day stay in Broken Bow were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Eastman and children, Shawna, Lisa and David, of Park Valley Heights. During their stay, the Lincoln family visited with Mr. Eastman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brock; and with Mrs. Eastman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Wenquist.

Host and hostess role were taken yesterday in Country Club Manor by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph F. Lind, Mr. and Mrs. Lind entertained a group of friends and members of the family at a traditional Thanksgiving Day dinner at their home.

Welcoming a very special visitor into their home last Saturday were Kimballcrest residents Mr. and Mrs. Jake Bott. The guest, who we understand will be in Lincoln through the Christmas holidays, is Mrs. Bott's mother, Mrs. Nette Wallace of Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Wallace arrived in Lincoln in time for a Thanksgiving dinner which was also attended by Mr. and Mrs. Bott's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Story and children Jakie, Dennis and April.

We understand that, in the very near future, some foremr Lincoln residents will be returning to Lincoln to make their home. The returnees will be Mr. and Mrs. E. Forrest Estes, and looking forward to welcoming them "home" are their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brinkman and children, Carol and Richie.

Mr. and Mrs. Estes will arrive in Lincoln on Sunday, and they plan to move back into their former home at 941 No. 67th in Bethany Park Heights. Incidentally for the past 15 months Mr. and Mrs. Estes have been living in Little Rock, Ark. where Mr. Estes served as insurance commissioner for the state.

Unfortunately, Mr. and Mrs. Estes weren't able to be here for the holiday, and had they been in Lincoln this week, they could have had a visit with another of their sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Munson and children, Karen and Bobby. The Munsons spent Thanksgiving with the Brinkman family, but they found it necessary to return to their home in Moline, Ill. before Mr. and Mrs. Estes arrived.

Traveling to Kansas for yesterday's festivities were South Hills residents Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith and children, Susan, Craig and Kim. The Smiths spent the day as the guests of Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson of Garnett, Kan.

Betrothal Revealed

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Steyer of Blair have made announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Dorothy, to Dr. Donald Nemanich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nemanich of Lockport, Ill.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, Dec. 21, and the ceremony will be solemnized at the Wesley Foundation Chapel on the University of Nebraska campus.

Miss Steyer attended Nebraska Wesleyan University and now is a senior at the University of Nebraska.

Dr. Nemanich received his Bachelor's and Master's degrees at Illinois State University, Normal, Ill., and took his doctorate in linguistics at the University of Nebraska. He now is a member of the Florida State College faculty at Tallahassee, Fla.

Benefit Bazaar

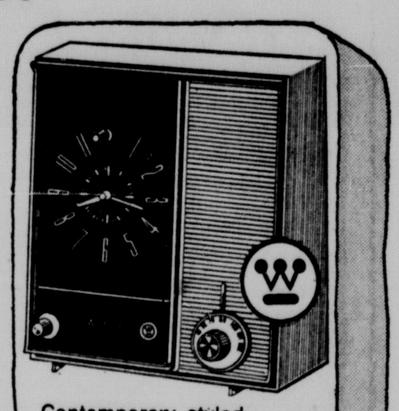

As a benefit for their numerous philanthropic activities in the community, the members of the Soroptimist Club of Lincoln, and of the Venture Club for young career women, will co-sponsor a "Holiday Shop" on Friday and Saturday, at 118 So. 11th.

BRIDGE: it's quiz day

B. Jay Becker

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump. North leads the six of spades, on which South plays the jack. How would you play the hand?

	♠ 95 ♥ 74 ♦ J10962 ♣ K1093
♠ AQ3 ♥ Q92 ♦ AQ84 ♣ AQ7	N W E S

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Hearts. North leads the ten of hearts, South following suit with the two. How would you play the hand?

	♠ Q4 ♥ 83 ♦ A9842 ♣ 10975
♠ AJ52 ♥ AKQJ65 ♦ — ♣ A64	N W E S

1. There is no way of assuring three notrump, since North may have the king of diamonds, but you can add considerably to your chances by attempting a deceptive play.

Win the jack of spades with the ace(!), lead a low club to the king, play the jack of diamonds, and finesse. If South has the king and the suit is divided 2-2 or 3-1, you make at least nine tricks (a spade, five diamonds, and three or four clubs).

If North wins with the king of diamonds, he is likely to lead another spade because he will naturally conclude from your play of the ace of spades at trick one that his partner has the queen.

Had you won the original spade lead with the queen, North would immediately have known that you started with the A-Q. On winning with the king of diamonds, North might then take it into this head to shift to a heart as is only hope of beating the contract.

The beauty of this deceptive play at trick one is that while it may cost you an overtrick if South has the K-x or K-x-x of diamonds, it cannot cost you the contract. Considering that a game is at stake, the possible 30-point loss is insignificant.

2. Win the heart and lead the jack of spades. If it loses to the king, you are practically sure of ten tricks — consisting of two spades, six hearts, and the two side aces. If the jack holds the trick, which is unlikely, continue with the ace of spades and a spade ruff. If all goes well, you make eleven tricks.

The trip to avoid is a low spade lead toward the queen at trick two. If the queeen lost to South's king and a trump came back, you would probably finish down one, losing two spades and two clubs.

Pamphlet Published

The rising percentage of working mothers — creating many social and economic questions for the families involved — has brought about the publication of a bibliography on, "Working Mothers," by the national Business and Professional Women's Foundation.

Compiled by Jeanne Spiegel, Foundation librarian, the bibliography contains the most recent materials on the subject including books, reports, periodicals, microfilms and tape recordings.

Evident in the material is the disturbing fact that at a time when more and more mothers are entering the labor force, many of them do so with feelings of guilt and anxiety.

The answers to this are as numerous as the women involved, though it is interesting that two contributing women commented that, "Caring is better than cleaning," and "Working mothers must do first things first, second things never."

The listed material in the bibliography is available at the Foundation Library to researchers, and to all women interested in practical facts such as how to figure budget and take-home pay; how to obtain a job; how to manage part-time housekeeping; and how to arrange for safe and adequate care for the children.

A Beautiful Table Denotes Gracious Living

Nothing makes a meal seem more festive and appetizing than a well-dressed table. Even so simple a breakfast as cornflakes and coffee takes on new dimension when it's served in sparkling crystal bowls and gay china cups, punctuated with colorful printed table mats.

There are three things to consider when planning your setting:

1. Your crystal should be the finest you can afford in a shape most practical for your way of life and style of entertaining.
2. Large doses of color in the form of prints set off your tableware in the most effective way.
3. Mix and match china and accessories in accordance to the mood you wish to achieve, taking care that they coordinate with your theme and color scheme — even your menu.

Printed fabrics particularly lend themselves to imaginative and appealing tables. Florals, paisleys, abstracts, wallpaper prints, peasanty border prints — these are all ideal for any mood, from the most formal to the casual. The trend today is away from the all-white-and-gold look that served for formal occasions for so many years. Much more interesting and modern is the combination of delicate or robust pattern with decorative bone china in a complementary design.

No more is crystal designated formal or casual. Even the finest French crystal can be used everyday as well as for special occasions. It's the way that you use it that sets the mood — the type of china and printed cloth or mats you choose to go with it, the floral or crystal centerpiece in short, the total look that determines the mood.

The pretty table sets the mood for festive holiday entertaining that is when it's time for fine French crystal to sparkle under the influence of candlelight and for flowers to burst forth on delicately painted china which is in its proper place on romantically Schiffli-embroidered Irish Linen tablecloth. The napkins match the embroidered cloth.

The lightness and gaiety of the setting is in marked contrast to the heavy formality usually associated with important dinner parties — and in keeping with the airy quality of a dining room decorated with sunny green and yellow.

An Image Of John Wayne Haunts Men On Safari—Stylewise—That Is

By GLORIA EMERSON
(c) New York Times Service

Nairobi, Kenya — There is no place like Kenya to make a man worry about how he looks. Thousands of American male tourists start twitching about it almost as soon as they check into a hotel in Nairobi.

"They all want to look like John Wayne," said an Englishman here who sells safari clothing to American tourists, including Wayne. The actor once made a film about Kenya called "Hatari."

"I think the men care more than the women how they look — they are more anxious to look a part," said Michael (Mickey) Migdoll, who owns the Esquire Shop in Nairobi. The shop is near York Street, and there is a pocket-sized annex near the new Stanley Hotel on Kenyatta Avenue, where many American tour groups stay.

Since no tourist stays put in Nairobi for long, it is clothes for the safaris that are a problem. Derived from the Arab word for journey, safari means a trip, not necessarily one that involved hunting. In Kenya, there are even photographic and bird safaris. Tourists here often go to Tanzania, too.

American men go to the Esquire Shop for their khaki safari suits — which means a Bush jacket and trousers — as soon as they unpack the clothes they don't want to wear.

"A lot of them fuss during a fitting, worrying about a crease here, a crease there," Migdoll said, "I tell them, listen, by the time you've traveled 50 or 100 miles, you'll look like a sack of potatoes anyway."

He is right. Some roads in Kenya are no smoother than washboards.

Off the peg, a safari suit at the Esquire Shop, made in the workrooms in Nairobi, costs about $21. A made-to-measure safari suit, in the same style, costs slightly more and takes 24 hours.

"What American men grab first is usually a Bush hat with a leopard band," Lewis Greene, a salesman at the Esquire Shop near the new Stanley Hotel, noted.

After the wide-brimmed Bush hat, many of them buy a necktie called "The Big Five." Against a navy, maroon or dark green background, there is a lion's head, a buffalo's head, an elephant, a rhinoceros and a cheetah. The price is about $3.50.

"In the old days I could hear the lions roar from my hotel room in Nairobi every night," Migdoll said. He first came to Nairobi, from London, in 1931 as the drummer in a band which played in the restaurant of Torr's Hotel, now the Ottman Bank, in Nairobi. He opened the first Esquire Shop in 1938.

"In the thirties we had all sorts of big boys come here—Gary Cooper, Raymond Guest, Ernest Hemingway," Migdoll said. "There weren't many, ah, ordinary tourists. American millionaires, yes."

Tourism is now Kenya's second largest earner of foreign currency. The credit is almost entirely due to the lions, giraffes, elephants, deer, buffalo, leopards and rhinos in the game reserves.

Migdoll — who has also outfitted Gen. James H. Doolittle, the actor Stewart Granger and William Holden, the actor who is co-owner of the posh Mt. Kenya Safari Club, remembers the days when men had different wardrobes. They stalked around Nairobi looking as though they had just come out of the bush.

Today, Nairobi with a population of about 267,000, is a city, with growing pains, full of men in city suits and white shirts.

Zippy Dip

A delightful dunk for crisp fresh raw vegetables. Simmer 2 cups canned apple sauce for about 10 minutes to evaporate some of the moisture. Chill. Combine chilled apple sauce with ½ pint dairy sour cream, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and ½ teaspoon salt. Mix well. Makes about 2½ cups.

Meeting Scheduled

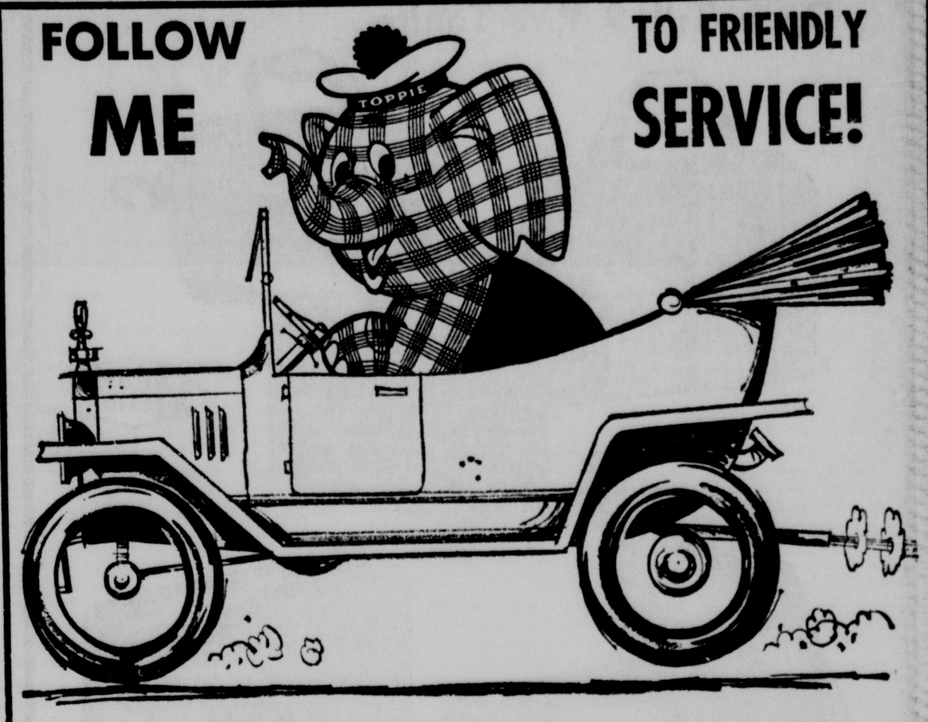

Scheduling meetings for the first week in December are Lincoln PEO Chapters.

Meeting on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock will be the members of Chapter FW, PEO, who will be the guests of Mrs. T. M. McCalla at her home, 5825 Meadowbrook Lane.

The monthly meeting of Chapter FF, PEO, will be held next Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. D. R. Hughes, 2420 Sheridan.

The 8 o'clock program will be presented by Sgt. Wayne Rowe.

ABBY: always be a perfect lady

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am not a mixed-up teen-ager, I am 24 years old, and I have been around the track a few times. When I was 18 I got involved with a married man and ended up with a baby and no husband. After that, whenever I dated a guy he took it for granted that I was easy, and I had a fight on my hands.

Men think that because a girl made one mistake she has nothing to lose. When I make it plain that I intend to behave myself, they think I am putting on an act. How is a girl who has learned her lesson and reformed supposed to act on a date?

GIRL WITH A PAST

DEAR GIRL: She is supposed to act like a lady, and after she has acted that way consistently, she will convince one and all that she is sincere. And if she loses the man, she can consider herself lucky because she'll know he wasn't looking for a respectable girl. And by the way, it's easier to live down a "past" if you change pastures.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is so hard to get up in the morning, I just don't know what to do. Once he's up, he's truly ambitious and hard-working, but it's getting him out of bed that's a chore. If I call him more than once, I'm "nagging" him, and I don't like to start the day off with a fight.

If I call him only once, he turns over and goes back to sleep. He's constantly late for work, which looks bad on his record. His mother said she had the same trouble with him before he was married.

We've been married for 3 years and I do love him. How can I make him realize that the early bird gets the worm?

BEAT IN BALTIMORE

DEAR BEAT: Maybe he's not crazy about worms, but if he likes butter on his bread, he'd better wake up (literally, that is). If he continues to be late for work, better get yourself a job. You'll need it.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Figures Don't Lie—Watch Your's

Josephine Lowman

Every once in a while I remind my readers that "the shape they are in" is not dictated entirely by fatty deposits. There are other factors.

First, there is the skeleton. There is not much we can do about that except to be sure poor posture does not cause incorrect alignment, and resulting round shoulders, Dowager's Hump or a swayback.

Muscles play a much more important part than most women realize. These were made to use, and when they are not used or are exercised too little, they deteriorate and become weak. They may also slump. This of course changes the lines of the silhouette.

Even more interesting, any extra fat we may have seems to accumulate over these weakened muscles. This is a well recognized fact. A physical education expert once said to me during an interview, "Fat accumulates over lazy muscles." I have seen evidence of the truth of this over and over again in my figure molding classes as fatty deposits disappeared over activated muscles.

Perhaps this is one reason why a protruding abdomen is one of the most prevalent feminine figure faults. During pregnancy the abdominal muscles are stretched and weakened. Unless they are reconditioned with exercise after delivery, fat is certain to gather there.

If this is your figure defect, go after it with exercise. Try this one.

Lie on the floor on your back with your arms on the floor extending out from your shoulders, palms facing the floor. Place a small pillow beneath your hips. Bend both knees up to your abdomen. Straighten your legs toward the ceiling. Slowly lower legs downward to a point about a foot above the floor. Again, slowly bend your knees, straighten toward the ceiling and lower again to the same level. Continue. If this is too difficult, bend, straighten and lower, only one leg at a time until your muscles become stronger.

Of course the best way to have a lovely silhouette is to have a naturally good figure, without rolls of fat or slumping muscles, but never underestimate the importance of undergarments! These can improve even a good figure and can make a mediocre one appear stunning.

Today there is such great variety in girdles and brassieres. There is the high-rise girdle and the long-line bra. Both slim the waistline. Then there is the all-in-one foundation which has been popular for a long time.

Since the current fashions allow the waistline to appear again as a part of the feminine anatomy, a woman cannot afford that roll over the girdle or a too-full diaphragm. While you are working to improve your figure, the right brassiere and the right girdle can make you happier than a candystick on a Christmas tree should.

Choose your bra and girdle or foundation carefully. If it is available, get expert advice. An experienced saleswoman in that department will take your measurements and give you intelligent guidance. Be sure to try several types (not saleswomen but girdles and brassieres). While trying one on sit when wearing it as well as stand and walk.

The bra-slip has been around for some time, but today it has adapted to the modern trend, and there are so many different kinds of bra-slips. Some are shaped to the body with a long-line stretch of elastic to slim down the middle of you. There are chemise types, starting with the bra or bandeau and shifting to a mini-skirt, straight from the cups.

This information comes from The Corset and Brassiere Council of America. Bra-slips are sized like brassieres. If you wear a bra, that's your bra-slip size however, try on more than one style, because designs differ. Wear a bra-slip with a long-line top under a dress that is belted or body-fitted from bosom to waistline. The chemise type is good when worn under dresses with fairly full skirts.

The neck, like a relative, is frequently the first to give a woman's age away. The face is often youthful in appearance for some time after a crepey or lined neck contradicts the impression of youth.

Posture plays an important part in neck beauty. When sitting, standing or walking during daily life, try to remember to keep your chin level, pushing up with the top of your head. Do not tuck your chin into your neck or push it forward.

Many women have the tendency to be careless about lubricating their necks as carefully and regularly as they do their faces. This is a great mistake. Your neck is apt to be much drier than your face.

Exercise is a factor in the beautification of your neckline. These exercises are also excellent for relieving tightness or tension at the back of your neck. Try them.

Sit on a chair with your hips touching the back of the chair, spine straight, tummy pulled in and feet flat on the floor. Let your hands rest in your lap, in a relaxed manner, palms up.

(a) Be sure to keep your chin parallel to the floor as you turn your head slowly to the right as far as you can. Now slowly turn it back to center and to the left as far as comfortable. Continue for six turns. Keep your shoulders down during all of these exercises.

(b) Take the same position, but this time when you turn your head to the right, look up over your right shoulder and when you turn it to the left, look up over your left shoulder. Continue for six times.

(c) Now let your head roll in a complete circle, first in one direction and then in the other.

If you would like to have my facial exercises which have helped many women send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for them. Address it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Here is an exercise to slim your waistline if it needs it. This is really an easy one and will be most effective if you do it correctly. Lie on your back with your arms resting on the floor overhead and your legs straight. Remain in this position as you swing both legs to the left AS FAR AS YOU POSSIBLY CAN, keeping the heels close to the floor and knees stiff. Swing back to place. Now swing them to the right. Continue, alternating.

Skin Beauty

Tinsel and lights, candles and mistletoe, gaily-wrapped packages and carols in the air. It's that special season known as Christmas when everything sparkles! But does your complexion?

Don't face Christmas with a jaded, winter-weary complexion when with a little conscientious effort, your skin can match the glow of the holiday season. And doesn't all beauty begin with the skin?

Here's a beauty trick to revive and revitalize your skin, a cream and mask treatment to banish dryness and tired lines on your face. Begin by smoothing on a double-enriched vitalizing night cream (the one with the tropical moist oil base). Then, cut holes in a soft, fleecy material for your eyes and nose, squeeze the cloth out in hot water and spread over your face for five minutes. The cream will penetrate more deeply with this mask which almost steams cream into the pores, down where it does so much good! Finish with a splash of cold water or a tone-up with lemon skin freshener to close the pores. Your complexion should look wonderfully alive and satin-smooth.

Give lank of lifeless hair a sheen with an egg-yolk treatment. Beat the yolk of an egg until frothy. Apply after your normal shampoo. Encircle your head for five minutes with a towel which has been squeezed out in hot water. Then rinse the hair well.

And Now Aristotle Onassis Is In The Social Register

New York — Aristotle Onassis Tuesday became the first of the "Golden Greeks" to be listed in the New York Social Register as the result of his marriage to Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

The chunky black "society bible" lists Mr. and Mrs. Aristotle Onassis on page 454 of the 1968 issue, which is currently being mailed to subscribers. Society insiders had speculated that the anonymous advisory board of the book might drop Mrs. Onassis' listing as the result of her marriage to a divorced man who had flaunted his friendship with opera diva Maria Callas.

However, the conservative policies that once ruled listings in the 83-year-old register have been liberalized and Onassis is in to stay. However, his children by his first wife, Christina and Alexander, are not listed although they are of listing age. The Kennedy children are not old enough yet.

John F. Kennedy Jr. celebrated his eighth birthday Monday with a small family party at his mother's Peapack, N.J., country house and Caroline marked her 11th birthday Wednesday with a similar gathering. The Onassises also planned to spend Thanksgiving at Peapack. (UPI)

Bore Hole Reveals Lethal Gas, Silence

Mannington, W.Va. (UPI) — The sixth of eight bore holes being drilled into areas of Mannington No. 9 mine where 78 miners are trapped was completed Thursday and air samples revealed that section also contained deadly carbon monoxide and methane.

Workers listened for some evidence of life through a sensitive listening device lowered into the mine tunnel, but heard nothing.

The remaining two holes were to be bored through the earth into the mine later Thursday.

Officials directing the drilling operations counted on the findings of tests made through the eight holes to reveal the fate of the 78 trapped men.

John Corcoran, president of Consolidation Coal Co., owner of the mine, told newsmen Wednesday that if all the air samples taken through the eight holes were bad it would provide "conclusive" evidence that air conditions in the test area could not support life.

The five holes already completed indicated deadly levels of methane gas and carbon monoxide still within the mine.

Corcoran said the location of the holes was precisely over rooms in the mine where the men were supposed to be working eight days ago when they were trapped by a massive explosion and fire.

The mine was rocked early by the 15th major explosion. it has sustained in the eight days.

Program On Atomic Energy To Be Presented At Schools

A demonstration lecture on atomic energy and its uses, sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission, will be presented at Lincoln High School Dec. 16 and Millard Lefler Junior High Dec. 20.

The program, titled "This Atomic World," is designed to acquaint students with the basic principles of nuclear energy, its sources and role in industry, agriculture and medicine.

Edward Scarcelle will present the assembly program which breaks down into student terms topics including the structure of atoms, radiation, reactors, and fusion. Scarcelle has completed extensive training at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., facilities of the Atomic Energy Commission. He holds a bachelor of science degree from the Drexel Institute of Technology.

Specially designed electronic equipment is used during the 40-minute program to show such things as sources of radiation, how nuclear energy is harnessed to furnish electric power for cities, the use of radioisotopes to aid in diagnosis and treatment of diseases and to learn more about life processes.

A blackboard talk to science classes, which deals more specifically with such topics as atomic structure, radioactivity, radiation biology, and careers in nuclear science, follows the assembly.

The program is operated by Oak Ridge Associated Universities which handles the nationwide exhibits program for the Atomic Energy Commission. The association is a nonprofit educational and research corporation of 41 southern colleges and universities.

The "This Atomic World" program scheduled here is one of 20 similar units appearing daily at high schools throughout the country. They are part of the AEC's extensive traveling exhibit program designed to bring the public a greater understanding of atomic energy and its uses.

West Germany's Oldest Citizen Dies At Age 108

Bremerhaven, Germany (AP) — Johann Woest, a farmer who claimed he lived to be West Germany's oldest citizen because he drank three rye whiskeys and smoked a cigar a day, has died here, his family announced. He was 108.

Woest, born Jan. 5, 1860, had been ill for several years, but until his 100th birthday, friends reported, he would walk 12 miles from his farm to visit friends.

When he was 100, however, he fell from a hay loft and broke several ribs.

He had always been a farmer, and did not serve in any of the five wars Germany was involved in during his lifetime, claiming he was always either too old or too

America Discovers Sin—International Monetary Variety—May Be Rewarding

© New York Times Service

By ALBERT L. KRAUS

New York — Sin, the United States has discovered, may be not merely pleasurable. It may be positively rewarding. International monetary sin, that is.

No one has preached that the United States should solve the problems of the dollar by deliberately inflating its currency. Quite to the contrary, the standard sermon has advocated fiscal and monetary restraint.

And yet, despite U.S. monetary behavior that can only be described as wanton, the dollar has remained insulated from the troubles that have engulfed the French franc.

Three Factors

This happy circumstance has been credited largely to three factors: the flow of European investment funds into the American stock market, the pullback into the United States by the banks of dollars deposited abroad, and the financing overseas of the capital requirements of foreign affiliates of American corporations.

Together, these things have created a shortage of dollars internationally and thus have helped sustain the value of the dollar.

The riots last spring in France and the Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia have revived the reputation of the U.S. as a safe haven for foreign funds. The superior marketability of American shares and the selling efforts of American-owned mutual funds in Europe have helped broaden the market for American equities. The controls on American capital exports have limited the use of the American capital market by foreigners.

Legitimate Questions

Nevertheless, several questions legitimately may be asked:

Would the great rise in foreign investment in the American stock market, an increase that could reach $2 billion this year, have occurred in the absence of inflation?

Would American banks have been induced to repatriate some $3 billion of Eurodollars on deposit in their own branches overseas and in foreign banks in the absence of the demand spurred by inflation?

Would the controls that have created a record volume of offshore financing by overseas affiliates of American corporations long have remained in the absence of inflation? (A more pertinent question, perhaps, is can such controls be removed so long as inflation persists?)

Thus, in terms of policy, why not simply inflate so thoroughly and continuously that there would be no question of stock prices ever going down? Or of the demand for Eurodollars ever slackening?

One answer is that inflation requires steadily bigger doses to fulfill user expectations.

As Albert T. Sommers of the National Industrial Conference Board noted recently, inflationary expectations have been outrunning inflation itself for the past six months.

Expectations

For a time at least, expectations of rising prices seem to guarantee that prices will rise. Purchasing agents, buyers of machinery and construction, buyers of real estate, Picassos, diamonds, classic cars or gold, and buyers of common shares all seek to buy now and all succeed in driving up prices, Sommers notes.

To finance their purchases, they borrow, driving up interest rates. And when interest rates rise, they borrow still more in anticipation of still higher rates in the future.

The results, he notes, are an extra layer of inventory fat, the building of capital facilities in advance of need, the distortion of normal investor attitudes and real values as between equities and bonds — all things that may require painful unraveling in the future.

In The Long Run

The difficulty, as Sommers sees it, is that the long-run outlook for the U.S. is not fundamentally inflationary.

Instead, he sees an era of competitive abundance, with rapid advances in supply matching the prospective advances in demand.

If this is so, the dollar's insulation from the troubles of the franc may be temporary. Already, inflation has cost the surplus of exports over imports.

May Slow Inflow

If investors are forced to trim inflationary expectations, the decline in business activity and share prices may slow, if not reverse, capital flows toward the United States.

And international monetary sin may no longer seem either pleasurable or rewarding.

Ruble Stands Serene Amidst Monetary Crisis

By LISA CRONIN

New York (AP) — While the major free world governments fight to buttress their currencies, the Soviet Union's ruble stands serene. An international monetary crisis is as foreign to the Russians as a baseball game.

Why is the ruble immune to the problems of free world currencies?

Basically, it's that the ruble is not traded on the international monetary market.

The ruble is essentially an internal currency immune to fluctuations of other currencies. It is worth only in Russia whatever number of dollars or pounds or francs the Russians say it is worth.

Gold, Barter

When the Russians buy something from a Western nation they pay either by selling gold — the U.S.S.R. is the second largest gold producer next to South Africa — or by barter. They do not use rubles because most other countries will not accept them.

Otherwise the Soviets who hold some Western currencies obtained through exports or from Western tourism, behave much the same way as Western private investors.

"The Russians won't say how big their holdings are or where they hold them, but I doubt their holdings could have much of an effect on a Western currency," said Alec Nove, professor of economics at the University of Glasgow, Scotland, in New York on a visit.

Example

"Of course if they feel the deutschmark is going to be revalued, they might try to sell as much to Germany as possible and get as many DMs as they an, but so would other investors," he explained.

The Russian economy to a large extent has been isolated from the world trade system since the Revolution of 1917.

"The Russians escape the fluctuations of the international monetary market, but at the same time they don't participate in the enormous expansion of wealth brought on by inernational trade," explained a New York bank economist.

Bilateral Balancing

"The Soviets try to keep their trade accounts balanced on a bilateral basis which can be terribly inefficient," said Nove. "Right now to balance their account with Algeria, they're buying bad Algerian wine which the Western countries wouldn't accept."

Since the Russians trade through negotiated agreements, changes in the values of currencies would have little effect on them.

"If the franc were devalued, the Russians could manipulate their own ruble prices to keep the franc prices of their goods constant," said Peter Kenan, chairman of the economics department at Columbia University.

Valued At $1.11

However, since supply and demand factors do not test the value of the ruble, Western investors are wary of it. The Soviets value it at $1.11 per ruble, and claim it's the strongest currency in the world.

Dr. Paul E. Erdman, vice chairman and chief executive of Switzerland's Salik Bank of Basel AG, said the recent crisis might lad to a reform of the Western monetary system which would have a long-term effect on the ruble.

"There could be a substantial increase in the price of gold," he said, "and this could lead to steps toward the convertibility of the ruble."

Nove, however, is among those economists who feel the eventual convertibility of the ruble is more a political than an economic question.

Can Cite Mess

"If anything, the recent crisis will operate in the direction of no change," Nove said. "Those in Russia who oppose convertibility will be strengthened. They can point to the mess Westerners get into with their currencies."

Another potential effect of the Western economies on the Soviet Union is to attract Eastern European trade away from the Russians.

The invasion of Czechoslovakia has left the Russians with a difficult problem.

"The Czech economy has suffered and the question is whether or not the Russians will give the Czechs credit to help them over their economic difficulties," Nove said.

"They want to discredit the Czech government, but they may not want to let the Czechs wallow in economic problems."

Cubans Flee Red Regime To U.S. Base

Guantanamo Naval Base, Cuba (UPI) — Desperate Cubans climb, run, swim and float into this big U.S. base on the southeast corner of their Communist island every chance they get, usually under cover of darkness.

Some of them make it over the base fence and through the mine fields or via the waters of Guantanamo Bay and are quietly flown to the United Staes where they melt into the huge refugee population.

The Navy does not like to talk about the refugees or even acknowledge that the flights occur.

Less fortunate Cubans fail in their bid for freedom and are shot by Fidel Castro's vigilant troops, clawed or cowed by patrol dogs or drowned in the bay. The Cuban regime doesn't care to admit that such things occur either.

Last week at laast four escapers were reported to have made it into "Gitmo," as the base is known. The week before at least two were captured, one of them wounded in the foot by Cuban guards.

These reports come from some of the 500 Cuban exiles who live and work on the base and the 400 Cuban "commuters" who go back and forth daily from their jobs here via "the northeast gate," the only route through the 17-mile chain link fence Cuban workers are permitted to use.

Both the exiles and the "commuters" are mostly middle-aged, long-time and trusted workers.

Press reports that some 70 of Castro's troops around Gitmo had defected into the base were called "absolutely false," by Rear Adm. James B. Hildreth, commander of the base.

Ford Announces Recall Of 81,000 Suspected Autos

Detroit (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. Wednesday announced it was recalling 81,200 Ford and Mercury cars for dealer inspection of a possible mispositioning of the front brake hose which could rupture, leading to a loss of front braking power.

Affected were 1969 model cars with standard brakes in which the hose could possibly be positioned so it would rub against the brake drum. A rupture would result in only the loss of the front brakes, because the dual brake system would keep the rear brakes functioning, the company said.

Braking efficiency would be reduced substantially but not completely, the company said. The owners of the affected vehicles will be notified by certified mail to bring their cars in for dealer inspection and possible replacement of the front brake hose.

Deportation Dilemma Faced By Government

Atlanta, Ga. (AP) — Where do you deport an "alien" who never has been a citizen of any country other than the United States?

Thomas Glenn Jolley, a 24-year-old North Carolina native, is the subject of such a dilemma. This week, the U.S. Immigration Service ruled he must leave the country within 90 days or be deported.

The Immigration Service says that Jolley, born in Greensboro, N.C., and now living in Atlanta, went to Canada last year to escape the draft, voluntarily giving up his U.S. citizenship in Toronto in May, 1967.

Called Illegal

The government contends that Jolley later returned illegally to the United States and that he should be deported as an alien, since he is no longer a citizen of this country.

Federal officials have no specific answer on where he could be deported. Presumably the United States would have to find a country that will accept him.

Milton Milich of Miami, the federal inquiry officer who this week made the decision on Jolley, said at the hearing last September that the Jolley case undoubtedly will set a precedent whatever the outcome.

Jolley, a slim dark-haired man with a moustache, lives in a small apartment in Atlanta with his 21-year-old wife.

No Interest

"I have no interest in returning to Canada," Jolley said, in an exclusive interview with the Associated Press.

U.S. government records show that Jolley signed a formal oath of renunciation of citizenship in May of 1967 in Toronto.

His draft board records in Bremen, Ga., where he was registered while attending the University of Georgia, shows Jolley twice was ordered to report for induction after being classified 1-A.

Asked if he has any regrets about giving up his citizenship, Jolley, whose wife went to Canada with him, said:

"I guess we did what we thought we had to do at the time we did it . . . That doesn't mean we would do it again," he said.

On Principles

Jolley indicated he still felt he had acted from principle — primarily an objection to the war in Vietnam and to the draft itself.

"The consequences have a lot to do with it," said his wife, when asked if she would want to take the same action again. "You might be tempted just to ride along. A lot of Tommy's friends have gotten good teaching jobs . . . other jobs . . . He's been fired from two jobs since this started."

"It's such a horrible thing . . ." Mrs. Jolley said, starting to cry a little at one point. "It's so bad living under that. All they have to do is announce where you work and you're fired. It's instantaneous."

Secret Job

Jolley said he has found another job but for obvious reasons he hoped to keep it a secret.

Jolley's wife, who asked that her first name not be used figures in the case in an usual way. His attorney argues that since she is from Atlanta, and a U.S. citizen, Jolley is entitled to stay in this country as the husband of a U.S. citizen, regardless of any other issue.

Government officials contend that since Jolley gave up his citizenship specifically to avoid the draft, he has no right on any basis to return to the United States from Canada.

Review Slated

The Nebraska Department of Economic Development Committee will review department programs and the status of industrial development and community development activities at its regular quarterly meeting at 10 a.m. Dec. 5 in the department's conference room.

DONALD ROSS

Ross, Hewitt Will Handle Arrangements

The State Republican Central Committee announced that the arrangements for inaugural ceremonies for President-elect Richard Nixon will be handled by Donald Ross, national committeeman from Omaha and Jim Hewitt of Lincoln.

Hewitt, who was in charge of Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann's inauguration in 1966, will make arrangements for Nebraskans who will participate in the inaugural parade.

He said a committee of professional musicians will assist in the selection of a band to represent Nebraska.

Ross will handle all the other various arrangements for Nebraska's role in the Nixon inauguration, which will be held Jan. 20, 1969, on the steps of the Capitol.

Nebraskans attending the ceremonies will leave on a chartered flight from Omaha Jan. 17 and return Jan. 21.

Youth Is Injured As Car Hits Pole

A 19-year-old Lincoln man suffered serious injuries early Thursday morning when his car collided with a power pole at 11th and Adams.

Police said John C. Hadwick, 1903 Park Ave., was injured when the car he was driving severed the power pole at the ground and threw him through the windshield of his car.

Hospital authorities said Hadwick's tongue and nose were partially severed during the accident and he lost "considerable number of teeth on impact."

Soviets Follow U.S. In Rejecting Proposal By Nuclear Have-Nots

United Nations, N.Y. (AP)— The Soviet Union followed the United States Thursday in rejecting a plan for a U.N. committee that could pressure the nuclear powers to make concessions to countries without nuclear weapons.

Soviet disarmament expert Aleksei A. Roshchin said his government categorically opposes creating a committee to continue the work of a conference of non-nuclear countries held in Geneva Aug. 29-Sept. 2.

He spoke in the General Assembly's main political committee, where U.S. disarmament expert William C. Foster declared Nov. 19 that the United States was strongly opposed to setting up such a body.

Backed By 9

The committee on the peaceful uses of nuclear energy — advocated by nine non-nuclear nations — would follow up implementation of the conference's recommendations for more aid in the atomic field and better guarantees against nuclear attack, all to be provided by the nuclear powers to non-nuclear countries.

Roshchin's arguments against the committee were, in the main, the same as Foster's: that it would duplicate existing bodies, hamper international cooperation on nuclear energy and complicate disarmament negotiations. Roshchin added that it would undermine the United Nations.

He blasted the idea that the committee should consider calling an international conference to guarantee freedom from nuclear attack to countries without nuclear weapons.

Revise Charter?

Roshchin said that idea was an effort to revise the U.N. Charter, which made security the business of the General Assembly, the Security Council and especially the veto-holding big powers on the council.

He contended that the non-nuclear countries would be protected amply by the treaty against the spread of nuclear weapons approved by the assembly and by the security guarantees given by the council last June.

Roshchin urged prompt ratification of that treaty. He welcomed Britain's ratification of it Wednesday. Ireland and Nigeria are the only other countries that have ratified it. The Soviet Union is presumed to be waiting for the United States to do so before it takes such action.

Killed Project

Some diplomats said big-power opposition had killed the project to establish a new nuclear committee. The nine would-be sponsors have been seeking support for two weeks for a resolution establishing such a body. But they have not submitted the resolution because of its uncertain prospects.

Other diplomats said the idea was still alive.

The countries seeking establishment of the nuclear watchdog committee are Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Mexico, Italy, Yugoslavia, India, Japan and Pakistan.

Moslem Brotherhood Linked To Disorders?

© New York Times Service

Cairo — Well-informed Egyptians reported Thursday that the Moslem Brotherhood had stepped up its anti-government propaganda in the United Arab Republic shortly before last week's outbreak of student rioting.

The report dovetailed with other indications that the clandestine arch-conservative group may have played a role in the disorders, which underscored the gravity of internal problems they have posed for the Nasser government.

With calm restored, the regime was taking the initiative Wednesday with a policy of firmness against the dissident youths and a flurry of high-level political activity.

"Were there hidden hands at work?" the Cairo newspaper Al Ahram asked in a headline Thursday morning, hinting at widespread talk in Cairo of activities by the Moslem Brotherhood, which hates Nasser's Arab socialism and seeks to establish an Islamic theocratic state.

In Alexandria, center of the recent disorders three dozen government investigators were probing their causes.

Officials said privately that their inquiry had shown that 14 men and one woman had been killed and 84 persons injured in three days of disorders, which were quelled by steel-helmeted police using clubs, tear gas and firearms.

In all 210 demonstrators were said to have been detained by police. There was considerable concern that casualties and mass arrests, which have not been officially confirmed, might fuel future student protests.

Red China Reported Ready To Give Albania Arms Help

© New York Times Service

Hong Kong — Communist China has agreed to supply Albania with military aid, economic specialists here believe.

Past Chinese assistance to Albania has not been of a military sort but new agreements concluded in Peking last week are believed to include some form of military assistance.

This follows the concern expressed both in China and Albania over the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, Albania's subsequent withdrawal from the Warsaw Pact and a visit to Peking by Bequir Balluku, the Albanian minister of defense.

Premier Chou En-lai pledged public support for Albania during Balluku's visit, warning the Soviet Union that if it committed military aggression against Albania neither the Albanian nor the Chinese people would "let you off."

China's leaders sent their Albanian counterparts an effusive message greeting the "24th anniversary of the liberation of Albania" and stating that their friendship could "stand any rigorous test."

The new Sino-Albanian agreements are expected to increase Albania's economic dependence on China and strengthen Peking's influence over its tiny Communist ally, which affords the Chinese Communists their only significant foothold in Europe.

A press communique reporting the agreements, which were signed at the conclusion of a visit to China by Adil Carcani, a member of the Albanian politburo, and a delegation of top-ranking government officials, contained what economic specialists here have interpreted as an oblique reference to military aid.

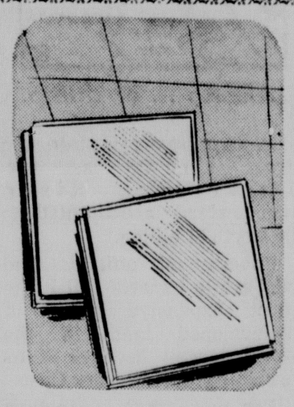

Airman Charged In Philippines Crime Syndicate

Manila (AP) — A U.S. Air Force enlisted man has been arrested in connection with a crime syndicate responsible for hijacking truckloads of American government goods at Clark Air Force Base, informed sources said Thursday.

The airman could not be identified to ensure his safety, the sources said. He is charged with the theft of 504 cases of U.S. cigarettes worth more than $31,000, the sources said.

Thousands of dollars worth of cigarettes, liquor and other items have been lost in a series of truck holdups in recent months around Clark base in central Luzon, about 60 miles north of Manila.

Plans Approved To Make N.J. Garbage Dump A 21st Century City

Secaucus, N.J. (AP) — After 300 years of bickering, the way is legally clear for converting the world's most expensive garbage dump into a 21st century city within eyesight of the Manhattan skyline.

A plan for developing 18,000 acres of marshland in the North Jersey meadows was finally approved by the state legislature this week.

State officials immediately moved for federal approval of the plan which they project as the biggest combined land reclamation and urban development program ever attempted in the United States.

Complex Seen

The play envisions a modern urban complex about the physical size of Manhattan with perhaps 500,000 people and 300,000 jobs. It looks to the creation of schools, housing, compatible industrial development, parks, transportation facilities and all the other essentials of a 21st century city.

'It could very easily turn out to be the eighth wonder of the world," beamed Gov. Richard J. Hughes, who helped steer the controversial development plan through a storm of local opposition.

AREA . . . of dump.

In its present raw state, the tract known as the Hackensack River meadowland is estimated to be worth $1 billion.

Government officials and real estate experts call it the most expensive piece of undeveloped land in the world, largely because of its proximity to New York City.

For more than a century the swampland has been a receptacle for millions of tons of garbage dumped each year by North Jersey communities which insisted there was no other place to put it.

These communities extracted a promise from the state that alternate disposal facilities would be established through scientific advances in incinerators or improved landfill operations.

The Indians sold the meadowlands to the Dutch in 1658 for some wampum, 12 brass kettles, some cheap cloth and half a barrel of beer. Ownership, however, quickly changed hands as the Dutch and British traded control of the country.

Bogged Down

Efforts at development got bogged down by the Revolutionary War, title disputes among individuals and the rise of New Yrok City.

A major breakthrough occurred last year when the New Jersey Supreme Court ruled that title to all marshland — or land covered by high tide — belonged to the state.

The plan approved by the legislature calls for a seven-member regional commission in charge of development. It would be authorized to float bonds for financing.

25 To 30 Years

Paul N. Ylvisaker, state commissioner of community affairs, who would be a member of the development commission, says the master plan timetable for completion of the urban complex is 25 to 30 years.

"We're going to show a new face of New Jersey to the world," Ylvisaker asserted.

"It's been an ugly face, we all know that, but now we have said it straight out that we're going to have a face lifting. And this plan is a statement as big as the problem which it hopes to solve."

Two Go Berserk

Seoul (UPI) — A young man axed his mother to death, then went into his village and killed seven others. A few hours later a man went berserk in another village and butchered his baby son and two other persons, police said.

Trudeau Hopes To Involve All Canadians In Decisions

© New York Times Service

Ottawa — As he rounds out his first half-year in office, prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau views his program for Canada, the Just Society, as a plan to excite ideas, challenge past assumptions and involve the people in running their country.

"I especially want people to understand," he said in an interview, "there is no great authority called the prime minister who gets messages from God — who makes great laws.

"If we come up with more ideas, it will only be accepted if the people are prepared for them, which means involving them, discussing with them, convincing them."

Philosophical

Accordingly, the Just Society, promised in an election campaign that brought Trudeau a surprising victory last spring, remains this autumn a philosophical concept — "To give every man his due."

Leaning on his elbows at his desk in the Parliament building toward the end of a long day of appointments, the 49-year-old prime minister explained that his relations with the United States and his plans for Canada in the Atlantic Alliance remain open while he reviews with his cabinet the gamut of his country's policy.

In a tape-recorded discussion with this correspondent and with Seymour Topping, foreign news editor of the New York Times, Trudeau made these major points:

—He would welcome a meeting with President-elect Richard M. Nixon, not to take up specific problems but to discuss the major premises of Nixon's thinking "and to acquaint him with mine."

Aim At Future

—Although there is danger that the huge U.S. investment in Canadian resources and industry may lead to foreign economic domination of Canada, he would encourage Canadians to invest in future development rather than try to "buy back" the existing American holdings.

—Belonging to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is important to Canada because it "permits us to talk to other people than the U.S about global military problems."

—Canada should recognize the Chinese Communists, with whom she has "a very important trade relation." Trudeau would want to discuss this action beforehand with officials in Washington, where, he feels, resistance might be less stiff now than it was "several years ago."

China's Interest

—Far-reaching realignments in the Communist world may in the long run make it "in the interests of China to be friendly with America rather than with Russia," and improved relations with the U.S. may be in the Soviet Union's interests, too.

Trudeau spoke a short while after an appearance in the House of Commons, where he had parried thrusts from opponents during the daily question period.

Motioning his callers to chairs opposite, he asked if he might sit at his desk where he would be free to prop his feet up if he felt like it. Trudeau wore a conservatively cut dark gray suit, a white shirt with button-down collar and a black four-in-hand tie with small red figures. Since becoming prime minister he has discarded his ascots, sport jackets and sandals.

With Gallic gestures he emphasized points ("It takes a hell of a lot of time to be prime minister"), or shrugged off distasteful ideas (Government officials "are not diabolical evil men trying to force a solution" upon the people).

In the hour-long talk, his low voice often fell to the mumble that has become the despair of Canadian journalists. His language favoring such terms as postulates," "premise" and "cultural dynamics" often betrayed the classroom approach that some Ottawa politicians find strange in their new prime minister. Trudeau was a law professor at the University of Montreal before he entered politics in 1965 to become a Liberal member of Parliament. Two or three times, Trudeau interrupted himself to apologize for "a long monologue," or for "stating such platitudes."

U.S. Gold Reserves Rise Slightly

Washington (UPI) — The gold reserves of the United States rose $33 million last month while the rest of the free world was heading for the current monetary crisis, the government reported Thursday.

Most of the increase was at the expense of the French franc.

A Federal Reserve Board report showed U.S. gold holdings up from $10,755,000,000 in September to $10,788,000,000 during October.

It was the third consecutive month U.S. gold stocks increased.

The gain brings the nation's gold supply to $112 million more than it was in July after the United States finished paying out its $2.5 billion share of the cost of last year's war against gold speculators.

Sources at the U.S. Treasury said most of the inflow of gold in the last three months has come from French exchanges of bullion for dollars needed to support its sagging currency.

Quakes, Climate Said Result Of Earth's Spin

© New York Times Service

New York — The head of Columbia University's Hudson laboratories at Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., has proposed that wobble in the earth's spin may be responsible for such diverse phenomena as earthquakes, periods of mountain-building and climate changes.

His proposal is an elaboration of a Canadian report that has created a stir among those who specialize in alayzing the motions of the earth. The Canadians have found a seeming correlation between major earthquakes and changes in the drift of the earth's spin axis.

The Columbia scientist is Dr. James R. Heirtzler, who has played a leading role in research that has led to wide acceptance of the concept of sea-floor spreading.

Hot Rock Flows

This concept is that hot plastic rock flows upward constantly—or intermittently — into mid-ocean ridges, such as the one that bisects the north and south Atlantic. This rock cools and is pushed away from both sides of the ridges by the arrival of new upflowing material. In this way the ocean floors move slowly away from the ridges towards the continental margins

In some places, such as along the coast of Chile or in the Western Pacific, this material bends downward under the continent, descending deep into the earth. Its descent is marked by volcanic activity and frequent earthquakes, some of them at depths measured in hundreds of miles.

What Dr. Heirtzler has found is that this sea-floor spreading tends to be symmetrical around axes that parallel the earth's magnetic axis. Both in turn seem to be controlled by the earth's spin axis.

In other words, the spin of this planet seems to control the process, deep within the earth, that generates most of its magnetic field. It is this magnetism that causes a compass needle to point towards the north magnetic pole.

Spin Is Key

The pattern of sea-floor spreading is such, according to Dr. Heirtzler, that it too seems to be governed by the earth's spin, even though it varies from ocean to ocean.

Hence he believes the correlation between major earthquakes and wobbles in the earth's spin can be traced to this same flow of material across the oceans and beneath the continents.

His proposal is explained in an article on sea-floor spreading in the December issue of Scientific American. "Both the presence of a geomagnetic field (that which controls compass needles) and the spreading of the sea floor," he wrote, "seem to be due to the mere fact that the earth is rotating."

Every few months, according to his hypothesis, "there are changes in the earth's rotational motion that affect sea-floor spreading and cause the earthquake associated with it. If such a change is large enough, it may even reverse the earth's magnetic field.'

As for climate, he said, it seems that "rather minor variations" of the earth's rotation axis "can effect to a surprising extent both the climate at the surface of the earth and forces and stresses within the earth," Heirtzler also noted that some scientists have recently speculated on a relationship between reversals of the earth's magnetic field and episodes of mountain-building. This would attach even more significance to wobbles of the earth's spin.

SPORT SIGNALS

Sports Editor, The Star

Giving Thanks

At Thanksgiving time, no matter how bad things have been, we all should be able to think of many things to be thankful for during the past year.

Sports figures and fans are no exception. A few of the things certain of them might be thankful of as they ate their turkey:

NEBRASKA FOOTBALL FANS — That they have a group of coaches, who, rather than cry over spilled milk, were at their offices at 8 a.m. Sunday morning getting ready for next season.

NEBRASKA FOOTBALL COACH BOB DEVANEY — That the few people making noises now are a very small minority and that the bulk of NU football fans are 100% behind him.

NEBRASKA'S FOOTBALL RESERVES — That after NU head coach Bob Devaney began using them early in the second half, Oklahoma coach Chuck Fairbanks decided to give his first stringers a rest in the final three or four minutes of the 47-0 romp.

EVERYONE IN GREEN BAY — That their Packers are in a weak NFL division and thus could stay alive into the playoffs where you need only two good performances and you're back in the Super Bowl.

CHICAGO BEARS COACH JIM DOOLEY — With Gale Sayers hurt and no sound quarterback, he's the one man who may have nothing for which to be thankful.

No Ticket Problems

NEBRASKA TICKET MANAGER JIM PITTENGER — That for the second straight year he doesn't have to worry about what to do with 20,000 bowl ticket requests in one hand and only 10,000 tickets in the other.

CREIGHTON BASKETBALL COACH RED McMANUS — That Wally Anderzunas is back because with the schedule he plays the only thing he needs worse than a Wally Anderzunas is a good pilot.

BIG EIGHT BASKETBALL COACHES — That Kansas can use Jo Jo White for only half the season.

LINCOLN AND OMAHA AREA BASEBALL FANS — That Omaha finally has returned to minor league baseball, giving us a chance for those delightful visits to the old ballpark.

OMAHA HAPPY HOLLOW COUNTRY CLUB GOLF PRO JOHN FRILLMAN—That he doesn't have to run the State Ladies golf tournament for another nine or ten years since he had it last summer.

GRAND ISLAND RIVERSIDE GOLF PRO MERLE BACKLUND — If there's anyone other than Jim Dooley who has nothing to be thankful for, it's Merle Backlund, who must host the State Ladies tourney next summer.

In Own Backyard

LINCOLN CITY PARKS AND RECREATION DIRECTOR JIM AGER — That when he needed a new golf pro for Holmes Park, he was able to find a highly qualified one in Bill Schuchart little more than a nine-iron away at the Hillcrest Country Club.

ABC TELEVISION — That they didn't pick the Houston-Tulsa game for televising last week. In case you didn't notice, that was 100-6.

LINCOLN PARENTS — That they are living in a city that provides an abundance of outlets for sports-minded youngsters. The Lincoln midget baseball and football programs are unmatched anywhere. Youngsters have their own golf course, adequate tennis facilities, a number of swimming pools, basketball leagues, etc.

SPORTS WRITERS — That we are working in an area where "Reds" refers to a baseball team, where a gun shot means the start of a race, and where the men in blue are respected even if not liked.

Eagles Finally Win, 12-0 Over Lions

A GOOD MUDDER . . . Eagles' quarterback Norm Snead (16) managed to stay relatively clean during the sloppy win over Detroit. Here he prepares to hand off to a drenched teammate during the fourth quarter.

Detroit (AP) — Sam Baker kicked four field goals to become the second leading National Football League point scorer of all times as the Philadelphia Eagles sloshed to their first victory of the season with a 12-0 shutout of the Detroit Lions Thursday.

The 35-year-old Baker, a 14-year veteran, kicked field goals in every quarter with boots from 36, 18, 32 and 35 yards out after a muddy, water-logged field prevented either team from scoring a touchdown.

The victory ended the Eagles' 11-game losing streak and extended the Lions' non-winning string to seven games. It was the first shutout suffered by the Lions in 62 games, since Oct. 25, 1964, when Baltimore blanked them 34-0.

Quarterback Norm Snead engineered the Eagles' scoring drives, relying mostly on the running of Tom Woodeshick and Cyril Pinder. Snead completed six of 13 passes in the first half for 55 yards.

Ironically, the victory may not turn out to be advantageous to the Eagles, who could grab the first college draft choice if they finish with the worst record in professional football this year. The first choice undoubtedly would be Southern California's great running back, O.J. Simpson.

Buffalo, in the American League, had a 1-10-1 record going into Thursday's game with Oakland while Philadelphia now is 1-11.

Philadelphia's triumph meant that it faced a chance of not having the exclusive rights to bid for Simpson as the No. 1 draft choice. As things stand now, Buffalo and Atlanta mathematically could finish the season in a tie with the Eagles for the poorest records and the right to draft Simpson.

Greg Landry started at quarterback for Detroit in place of the ailing Bill Munson. But he completed only three of five passes in the first half and had to rely on the running of Nick Eddy and Tom Nowatzke, neither of whom could break loose for any long gains on the sloppy field.

TEXAS HAS COTTON BERTH

Sixth-Rated Longhorns Clobber Aggies, 35-14

. . . TENNESSEE NEW YEAR'S FOE

Austin, Tex. (AP) — Texas, one of the nation's greediest ground-gaining teams, unveiled a passing attack to match and stole five passes Thursday in whipping Texas A&M, 35-14, and claiming a place in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day.

The Longhorns' opponent will be Tennessee, also their foe in the New Year's Day classic in 1950 and 1952.

The sixth ranked Longhorns rolled to a 35-0 halftime lead completely stopping A&M's fine quarterback Ed Hargett, and fought off the Aggies for their eighth consecutive victory against one loss and a tie.

The victory gave Texas a tie with Arkansas for the Southwest Conference title, the Longhorns' first championship since the national champion team of 1963.

The Longhorns gained the Cotton Bowl because they beat Arkansas, 39-29 in midseason.

Texas' senior halfback Chris Gilbert, though shut off with just 85 yards in 25 carries, by an Aggie defense which often had eight men on the line of scrimmage, jumped into the No. 3 spot among all-time college rushers. Gilbert finished with 1,132 yards this year for a three-year total of 3,231, ahead of such runners as Southern Cal's Mike Garrett, who is now fourth with 3,221.

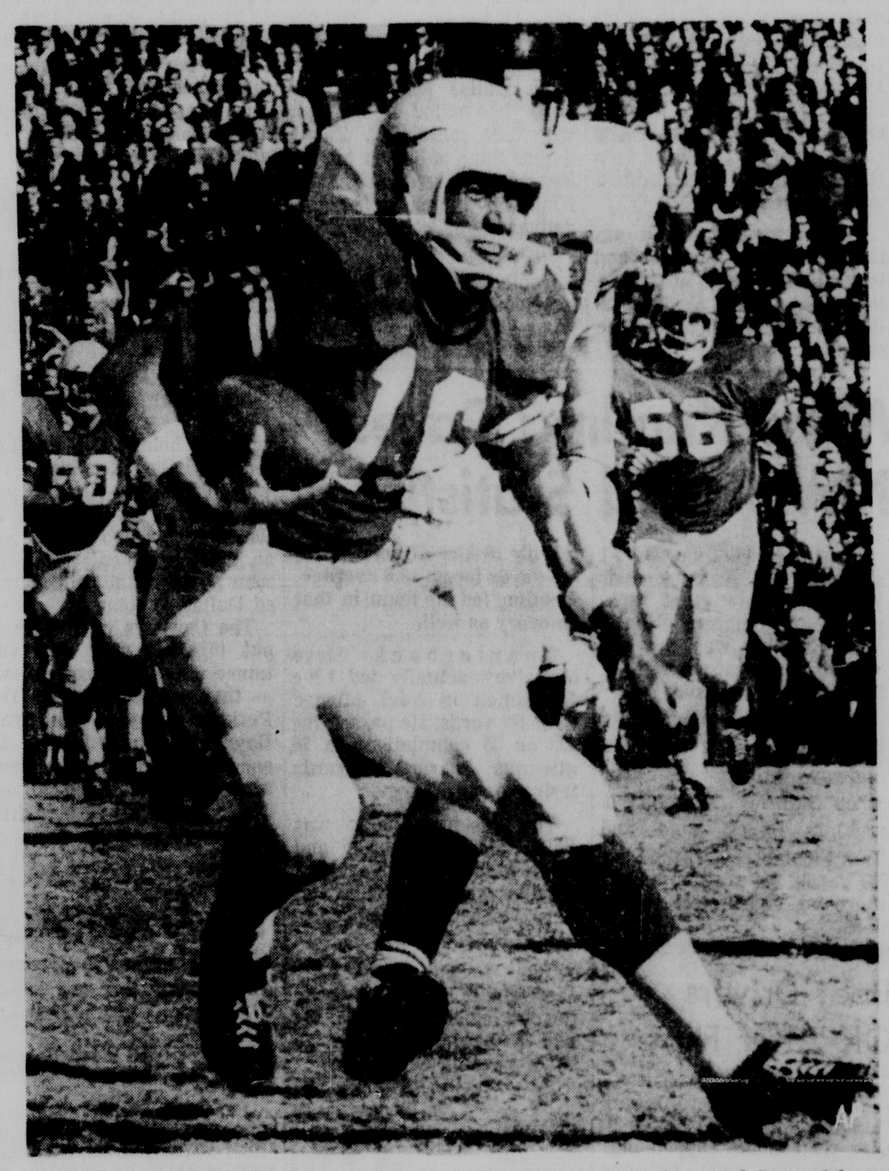

In other Thanksgiving Day contest, Virginia Tech, bound for the Liberty Bowl against Mississippi Dec. 14, crushed VMI 55-6, and Tulsa rebounded from a 100-6 thrashing by Houston last Saturday to down winless Wichita State 23-7.

Virginia Tech's victory was carved out by quarterback Wayne Humphries, who passed for three scores in his first varsity start, and a defense that intercepted four VMI passes and recovered two fumbles.

It was Tech's fifth straight victory and gave the Gobblers a 7-3 record. They scored 34 points in the second period for a 41-0 halftime lead. Humphries threw 32 yards to Bob Slaughter, 21 to Danny Cupp and 32 to Dickie Longerbeam for scores while fullback Ken Edwards heaved a 64-yarder to Jerry Crigger.

Mike Stripling's two scoring passes in the final period enabled Tulsa to outdistance Wichita State. The Hurricanes led only 3-0 before Stripling threw 16 yards to Harry Wood and seven to Les Bogers.

Stripling, a senior, completed 26 of 51 passes for 336 yards and finished his career with 276 for 589 for 3,593 yards.

TEXAS QUARTERBACK . . . James Street (16) runs to the A & M four-yard line on a first-quarter keeper play. Pursuing was Aggie guard Lynn Odom (behind Street), while the final stop was made by tackle Harvey Aschenbeck.

Raiders Nudge Buffalo, 13-10

. . . BILLS LOSE LATE FUMBLE ON OAKLAND ONE

Oakland (AP) — Rookie George Atkinson's two pass interceptions in the third quarter led Oakland to 10 quick points and Warren Powers recovered a Buffalo fumble on the one with 2:45 left to play as the Raiders edged the stubborn Bills 13-10 in a Thanksgiving Day American Football League game.

The victory made the Raiders' record 10-2 and kept them in a tie with Kansas City, a 24-10 victor over Houston, for first place in the Western Division.

The defeat left Buffalo with a 1-11-1 record with one game remaining. Philadelphia of the NFL, which won its first game of the season Thursday, is 1-11 in the battle for the No. 1 collegiate draft pick, who figures to be USC's hard-running O. J. Simpson.

After Powers recovered the fumble by Buffalo quarterback Ed Rutkowski, the Bills came back for one last try. But Atkinson batted down two passes and Buffalo placekicker Bruce Alford narrowly missed a 42-yard field goal.

The score was tied 3-3 late in the third period when Atkinson picked off a Rutkowski pass at the Bills' 46. George Blanda booted a 33-yard field goal, giving the hosts a 6-3 lead.

With 51 seconds left in the third period, Atkinson intercepted Rutkowski again and dashed 33 yards for a touchdown, the first of the game, to give Oakland a 13-3 lead.

The Bills, who hadn't shown much offensive spark, suddenly came to life. Rutkowski hit flanker Haven Moses with a 34-yard pass to the Oakland nine and a face-mask grabbing penalty put the ball on the four. Two plays later, halfback Max Anderson scored from the five to make it 13-10.

The Bills came back again and were aided by a pass interference penalty against Oakland's Willie Brown that put the ball on the Raider 18.

Buffalo moved the ball to the three and on third down

WARREN POWERS

Rutkowski swept wide on a keeper but just as he reached the one, he was hit and fumbled. Powers fell on the ball to kill the Buffalo drive.

High-Scoring Tilt Expected Tonight

Jacksonville, Fla. (AP) — Houston, which has scored a total of 177 points the past two Saturdays, and Florida State, which has scored 90, are expected to stage one of the gems of an offense-flavored college football season tonight.

This regular season finale will be the "bowl game" for the Houston Cougars. They are on NCAA probation, which precludes postseason games despite their No. 10 national ranking, 6-1-2 record and star-studded roster.

Florida State, unranked and 7-2 will go on to the Peach Bowl against Louisiana State with its equally glittering array of performers.

Arkansas Gets Sugar Bowl Berth

New Orleans (AP) — Arkansas officially accepted an invitation Thursday to play undefeated Georgia New Year's Day in the 35th annual Sugar Bowl.

"We're just as happy as we can be," said Razorback coach Frank Broyles in a long distance telephone hookup with Sugar Bowl President Fred Wolfe Jr.

This will be Arkansas' first appearance in the Sugar Bowl since consecutive tries on New Year's Day in 1962 and '63. The Razorbacks lost both games, bowing to Alabama 10-3 in '62 and Mississippi 17-13 the next year.

The game matches the Southeastern Conference champion against the Southwest Conference's co-champion. Arkansas shared the SWC title with Texas. But because the Longhorns beat the Porkers in regular season's play, Texas got the host spot in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

Chiefs Rap Oilers, 24-10, Remain Tied In AFL West

. . . NY JETS CLINCH EASTERN TITLE

Kansas City (AP) — Len Dawson got Kansas City's slow-starting offense clicking late in the first half, then picked Houston's defense apart with his pin-point passing to fire the Chiefs to a 24-10 American Football League victory in a nationally televised game Thursday.

The triumph kept Kansas City tied with Oakland for the Western Division lead in the AFL. The Raiders defeated Buffalo 13-10 and share first place with the Chiefs with each club showing a 10-2 record.

The loss eliminated the Oilers, the defending Eastern Division champions, from contention and clinched the title for the New York Jets in the East. That means the Jets will host the AFL championship game Dec. 29.

Dawson, whose passing has been hampered by injuries to his prime receivers and his own severe thigh injury, threw scoring passes of 37 yards to Mike Garrett, and 33 and 43 yards to Frank Pitts.

He completed 10 passes in a row from late in the first half until the latter stages of the fourth period, including the three touchdown tosses. He had 17 completions in 23 attempts for 253 yards in all.

It was Dawson's 43-yard strike to Pitts with 7½ minutes left that gave Kansas City a 21-10 lead.

Jan Stenerud booted a 17-yard field goal three minutes later for the final 24-10 reading after Curly Culp blocked a punt and Jerry Mays recovered at the Houston 13-yard line.

Houston, trailing 14-3 after Dawson's 33-yard scoring pass to Pitts in the second quarter, bounced right back on Pete Beathard's 66-yard touchdown pass to Jim Bierne. That was Houston's last gasp. Closest the Oilers got again was the Chiefs' 41.

Jim Lynch led a Chief defensive charge which shut off the Oilers after the first quarter. He caught Woody Campbell for a three-yard loss on a sweep, intercepted a pass, helped throw Beathard for a 12-yard loss, stacked the interference on a sweep, and deflected the pass which Robinson intercepted.

The Chiefs and Oilers spent the first 28 minutes in offensive frustration, then packed a field goal and touchdown into the final 2:12. Houston broke through for a field goal after W. K. Hicks intercepted a Dawson pass and returned it 11 yards to the Chiefs 35. Wayne Walker booted from the 39.

Following the kickoff, Dawson passed 23 yards to Robert Holmes, 17 to Fred Arbanas and then hit Garrett on a sideline pattern for the score.

University of Nebraska ticket manager Jim Pittenger indicates that a good supply of both reserved and general admission tickets remain for Saturday's Nebraska-Wisconsin basketball game.

Extra tickets are available because the bulk of the student population has left campus during the Thanksgiving recess.

The ticket office will be closed Friday, but will open at 1 p.m. Saturday and remain open until the 7:35 tipoff.

Links, Southeast Are Expected To Dominate Gymnastics Action

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

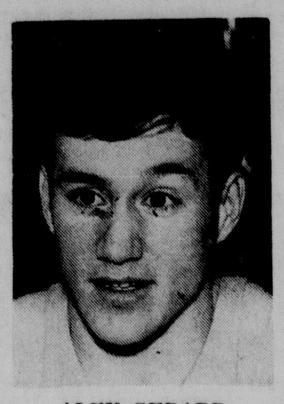

Gymnastics, a prep sport in which Capital City schools have dominated for the past ten years, prepares for another season in which Lincoln teams hope to continue that supremacy.

Lincoln High, which captured the state title last winter, will be hard-pressed to repeat as the Links expect a stiff challenge from Lincoln Southeast.

The Knights won the Trans-Nebraska conference crown last year, though Lincoln High then came on to win both the district and state meets.

Links' coach Phil Sprague welcomes back ten lettermen, eight of whom earned points in the state championships.

Russ Ellis, who took the blue ribbon in tumbling, heads the Lincoln High returnees.

ALEX GERARD

Jeff Johnson, who placed in both floor exercise and tumbling, comes back for a final season, along with Jim Grump, Mike Bott, Doug Maughan, Tim Howell, Marty Tilts and Jim Guest, each of whom also won points in the state meet.

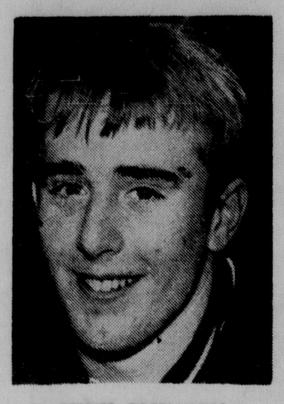

The other lettermen back for coach Sprague are Kevin Smith and Larry Evermann.

Though Sprague says that "Southeast should be the favorite this time," Knights coach Art Hillman said, "it will be close again. It will depend on which team can develop the most depth to help the returning lettermen."

Hillman has seven back from last year, including standout Alex Gerard the defending state champion in the rings. He also finished second in the parallel bars and all-around, plus third on the high bar.

Ted Kimball is another performer from whom Hillman expects great things. "He's one of the best on the trampoline in the state, but he's expanding, working on some other events as well, and this should help us."

Hoppie Batten, who won the trampoline event in the state last year, gives the Knights a big one-two punch in that specialty, while lettermen Rich Yates, Gaie Bohling, Pat Douglas and Gary Schmohr also return.

JEFF JOHNSON

"Yates has made a fantastic improvement on the sidehorse from a year ago," Hillman said proudly, "and looks like he'll challenge anyone in the state."

Northeast coach Bob Heffelfinger says he's in a building year and will be relying on many sophomores and juniors, but adds that "as they improve we hope to be in the thick of things by the end of the year."

In addition to graduation losses, the Rockets' hopes were further diminished by injury and ineligibility to several key performers. Bob Brown is the only returnee left.

East High, under coach Mick Johnson, starts its second season of gymnastics. "We used almost all sophomores last year and thus will have a junior dominated squad this time," Johnson said. "Injury has three of my returning lettermen out of acton at the present time which also hurts when you don't have much depth."

Larry Bond, Joe Brown and Jerry York are those out as the result of injury. Four other letter winners, Barry Cross, Allan Everett, Wayne Kubick and Hal Traver form the nucleus for the Spartan team.

Cowboys Clinch Title Tie On 29-20 Win Over 'Skins

. . . COLE'S INTERCEPTION PIVOTAL

Dallas (AP) — Rookie defensive tackle Larry Cole intercepted a wobbly pass and thundered five yards for a touchdown Thanksgiving night to clinch the Dallas Cowboys' 29-20 victory over the pesky Washington Redskins in a National Football League game.

The victory before a national television audience and 66,076 fans clinched at least a tie for the Capitol Division title. Dallas is 10-2 for the season.

Cole, a first-year man from the University of Hawaii, broke open a penalty-marred but tight game with the alert play. Dallas led only 22-20 when Cole pulled off his steal with 8:35 remaining. Tackle Jethro Pugh of Dallas blasted Redskin quarterback Jim Ninowski just as he tried to deliver the ball and it fell into Cole's arms.

Ironically, Cole scored a touchdown 10 days ago against Washington when he picked up a fumble and rumbled 21 yards for a score.

Ninowski, substituting for regular quarterback Sonny Jurgensen who had been weakened by a bout with the flu, paced a Washington come-from-behind effort with three touchdown passes. He hit Charlie Taylor for 29 yards, Jerry Smith for 11, and his final scoring toss of four yards to Pat Richter gave the Redskins a 20-19 lead with 12:50 remaining.

Dallas' Mike Clark kicked his second field goal of the night — 25 yards — to give the Cowboys a weak two-point lead.

Dallas held a 17-7 halftime lead as the Redskins, 4-8, were plagued by fumbles and penalties. Two fumbles by Washington's Bob Brunet and an interference call in the end zone against Jim Smith handed Dallas 10 points.

The Cowboys were able to put together only one sustained drive for a touchdown — that one coming on Don Perkins' nine-yard run. Craig Baynham rammed over for one yard out for a touchdown after the interference call and Clark kicked an 18-yard field goal.

Mike Kemling Paces NWU Grid Statistics

Final 1968 football statistics at Nebraska Wesleyan show that 150-pound sophomore halfback Mike Kemling was the top offensive threat for the Plainsmen this season.

Kemling, who moved into the NWU starting backfield midway through the year when injuries hobbled regulars Roger Sand and Tom Stootsberry, picked up 387 yards, 316 rushing and 71 more on eight pass receptions.

With 16 kickoff returns for 298 yards for an 18.6 average, Kemling led the team in that category as well.

Quarterback Steve McKelvey actually led the Plainsmen in total offense with 472 yards. He passed for 532 on 35 completions in 76 attempts, but lost 60 yards trying to run.

The rushing leader was Sand with 358 yards and Keith Maurer was the No. 1 receiver with 26 catches, but Len Wiegert with 22 grabs, had a 411-317 yardage edge.

One bright spot for Wesleyan in a 1-8 season was the punting of Lee Rohrs. He had a 38.3 average on 36 kicks covering 1,377 yards.

Prep Writers Select All-City

. . . 22-MAN GRID SQUAD

For the first time, sports writers from the five Capital City high schools have combined to pick an all-city football team. Twenty-two of the city's finest players combine speed, power, toughness and versatility to make an explosive offense and a rock wall defense.

Lincoln High's city champs lead membership with eight, Northeast runs second with six and what may surprise some, Pius X takes third in the numbers race with four. East, despite its fine second season, places only two, as does Southeast.

OFFENSE

ENDS: Ken Adkins, sophomore, 6-2, 165 (Lincoln High) and Tony Contreras, senior, 5-8, 145 (East). Adkins, the team's only sophomore, had a hard-to-beat opening season, catching 21 passes for 524 yards and six touchdowns. Contreras, injured much of the season, caught only 13 passes for 165 yards, but was rated high enough to edge out teammate Rick Mertens and bump Pius' Brad Schmidt to the defense.

TACKLES: Ron Swanson, senior, 6-5, 215 (LHS) and Mike Schrepf, senior, 5-10, 200 (Pius X). Swanson used his size and quickness to move people for the Links' fast backs. Schrepf played for a losing team but showed brightly enough to be picked, even though he played defense.

GUARDS: Charles Steuben, senior, 5-10, 190 (Northeast) and Duayne Nelson, senior, 5-11, 175 (LHS). Steuben combined with center Jack Siemsen to make the Rockets strong up the middle. Nelson was another pick on the offensive line and led his team on defense with 150 tackle points.

CENTER: Jack Siemsen, senior, 6-0, 200 lbs. (NE). Mentioned before, Siemsen had to fight off bids by East's Bruce Schlaebitz and Lincoln High's Dick Williams.

QUARTERBACK: Gary Worster, senior, 5-11, 185 (LHS). Let the figures speak: passing, 51-106, total yards 1,003, eight TD passes and only three interceptions.

HALFBACKS: Mike Shea, senior, 5-9, 170 (LHS) and Stan Johnston, 5-11, 175 senior (LHS). Mr. Outside for the Links carried 108 times for 716 yards, eight touchdowns and grabbed four passes for 102 yards and another score. Mr. Inside, Johnston of course, lugged the ball 159 times for 871 yards and 13 TDs. Remember the Links had a total of 490 rushing plays and 2,142 rushing yards.

FULLBACK: Maury Damkroger, junior, 6-2 190 (NE). Who else but. An offensive giant and just as good on defense, Damkroger may well be the best in the Capital City at any position.

DEFENSE

ENDS: Alan Austin, senior, 5-6, 190 (Southeast) and Brad Schmidt, senior, 6-1, 175 (Pius X). Austin received a slight nod over East's Rick Mertens, while Schmidt got his mention on toughness and skill.

TACKLES: Phil Koch, senior, 6-0, 219 (NE) and Bob McGinnis, junior, 6-1, 180 (East). Koch was solid choice for the pickers and McGinnis, who made 31 tackles and 14 assists for the Spartans, beat out teammate Stan Hegener on a close decision.

MIDDLE GUARD: Alan McPherson, senior, (LHS). McPherson, a regular season tackle for the Links, was a near unanimous choice. On two points for a tackle and one for an assist, he managed a total of 124 tackle points this year.

LINEBACKERS: Chuck Walters, senior, 5-10, 180 (SE). Bill Biggs, senior, 6-1, 190 (NE) and Mike O'Neill, senior, 6-1, 190 (Pius X), Walters, a guard for the Knights, gained the nod on hitting and quickness. Biggs, an offensive guard, was no stranger though, as he played here on defense. Mike O'Neill, described by 'Bolt head coach Vince Aldrich as the team's surest tackler, was a slight choice over East's Lynn McKee.

HALFBACKS: Cletus Fischer, senior, 5-9, 160 lbs. (Pius X) and Gary King, senior 6-0, 161 lbs. (LHS), Fischer was a unanimous choice and King, an offensive player by nature, received only a small challenge by East's Dick Safranek.

SAFETY: Dan Cook, senior, 5-10, 140 (NE).

The following sports writers chose the team:

Lincoln High—George Maly, sports editor of the Advocate, newspaper, Paul Eldrige, sports editor of the Links yearbook.

Waterfowl Hunting OK Throughout Nebraska

Waterfowl shooting has been the center of attention in Nebraska's hunting picture the past few days according to field reports from Game Commission conservation officers. Good numbers of ducks and geese are congregating at many reservoirs, and river shooting is providing top action. By area, hunting prospects look like this:

Southwest: Good buildups of waterfowl at several reservoirs, including Enders with about 40,000 ducks offering shooting around the refuge, and Swanson with about 10,000 webfeet, are keeping hunters plenty busy. Platte River shooting is generally good, with frequent flights of ducks and geese. Lake Maloney and other open waters are also good bets for duck shooters. Pheasant and quail success varies, with some regions good and others fair.

Panhandle: The North Platte River is providing good action on ducks in most areas, while pheasant gunning is good in the northern and central portions of the region. Pheasant hunters are seeing fair numbers of birds, but most are flushing out of range. Large hunting parties are having the best success.

Southeast: Harvest progress and colder weather is bringing improved field conditions and hunter success. Hunters are averaging about one pheasant per man and quail, squirrel, cottontail are combined in several mixed-bags. Big fields with plenty of cover are producing the best pheasant shooting. Duck hunters are finding activity on the Platte and Missouri rivers.

Northeast: Hunters have been few and far between the past few days, but hunting pressure is expected to intensify this weekend. Boone County is providing the best shooting, with many ringnecks found loafing around heavy plum brush patches. Several limits of ducks have been taken on the Missouri River.

Sandhills: Freezing weather has moved many ducks out of the region. Geese, although have been arriving recently and are providing shooting on portions of the Middle Loup River. Success on pheasants has been fair to good, with Holt and Boyd Counties providing the best shooting.

Two Denver Broncos Sidelined By Flu Bug

Denver (AP) — Two more Denver Broncos were felled by the flu Thursday and were excused from a workout in the snow for Sunday's American Football League game against the San Diego Chargers.

Coach Lou Saban said he did not know if offensive tackle Mike Current and reserve guard Jay Bachman would be ready Sunday.

Smith's Loss Changes Cyclone Cage Pattern

. . . OTHER FOUR STARTERS RETURN

Nobody disputes Iowa State basektball coach Glen Anderson when he says "replacing Don Smith will be extremely difficult."

Absence of the 6-8 Smith changes the whole picture at Iowa State. The Cyclones go from being one of the toughest rebounding teams in the league to perhaps the weakest and lose a potent inside scoring punch.

Smith broke virtually every Iowa State scoring record in three years and ranks third on the all-time Big Eight scoring list (1,672) and second on the career rebounding chart (1,025).

The bulk of the load carried for three years by Smith now falls onto the slender shoulders of 6-6 junior Bill Cain, who worked impressively in tandem with Smith a year ago.

In most instances Cain will be the only "big" man in the Cyclone lineup.

"We could play two 6-3 forwards," says Anderson. "When we play bigger teams there'll be a great amount of physical risk in even playing."

Experience figures to be a strong point as Anderson started four sophomores with Smith a year ago.

GLEN ANDERSON

The veterans are guards Jim Abrahamson (6-0) and Mike Murray (6-1), Cain (6-6) and forward Dave Collins (6-3). They're likely to be joined in the starting lineup by 6-3 junior college transfer Aaron Jenkins.

Anderson has been favorably impressed with Jenkins, who played at San Joaquin Delta last year. "He's very sound. In fact he makes less mistakes than some of my regulars from last year," says Anderson.

Other newcomers who figure to see action are guards Jack DeVilder (6-3) and Otto Stowe (6-1). Stowe joined the Cyclones late after leading the football team in pass catching in his first season.

The front line height situation can be helped somewhat with top reserves Ron Kaufman and Tom Kreamer, both 6-5.

Collins, who like Cain hails from White Plains, N.Y., is an exceptional leaper and figures to be Cain's biggest helper in the rebounding department.

Andretti Choice For Mays 300

Riverside, Calif. (AP) — When Mario Andretti tools his hawk-chassied, 256-cubic-inch Ford powered car onto the Riverside International Raceway track Sunday, he'll be in the driver's seat.

Andretti, the veteran from Nazareth, Pa., will be a favorite to win the Rex Mays 300, and he's just a hair away from winning his third national driving championship. He holds a 308-point lead on second-place Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., this year's winner of the Indianapolis 500.

The Rex Mays is a prestige race. It's the second richest and second longest on the U.S. Auto Club tour. In all $85,000 is up for grabs.

Southern Double Returns $1,372

New Orleans (AP) — The daily double at the New Orleans Fair Grounds paid a rewarding $1,372.40 Thursday — the record for an opening day.

Total betting on the daily double, $113,780, was also an opening day record.

The double was made up of Gemizen, No. 11, who won the first race to pay $23.40, and Battle Pick, No. 9, who won the second race and returned $32.

Communist Paper Has Beamon Most Popular

Warsaw, Poland (AP) — Bob Beamon, the Olympic broad jump champion from El Paso, Tex., was voted the most popular foreign athlete by the readers of Sztandar Mlodych (Banner of Youth), the Polish Communist youth newspaper.

Beamon won the poll by a wide margin, the newspaper announced Thursday. The New York native set a world record of 29 feet, 2½ inches in winning the Olympic gold medal.

New Trio Set In NU Lineup

Nebraska's basketball team will show some unfamiliar faces in the season opener against rangy Wisconsin Saturday night in the Coliseum here.

Only two lettermen — 6.5 forward Bob Gratopp and 6-2 guard Tom Scantlebury — have drawn starting assignments, and coach Joe Cipriano must buck the inexperience bugaboo in the early going. There are no seniors on the squad.

Junior college transfers Jim Brooks, a 6-8 center who hopefully is to give Nebraska some inside scoring punch, and 6-3 guard Marv Stewart and sophomore Tom Bryan, a 6-5 forward, round out the opening game lineup.

Cipriano calls Wisconsin "a tough opener with a typically big, strong experienced Big 10 team." The Badgers' front three stand 6-9, 6-8 and 6-5.

National Chairman Hits Alabama Demo

Washington (AP) — Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien moved Thursday to oust Earl Goodwin as national committeeman from Alabama on the ground that Goodwin refused to support the party's national ticket.

In a letter to Goodwin dated Nov. 26, O'Brien gave the Alabaman 10 days to seek a hearing.

"If I receive no reply from you within 10 days of the date of this letter," O'Brien wrote, "I shall assume that you do not desire a hearing and shall accept judgment that your failure to comply with the rules justifies a decision to declare your removal for cause as a member of the National Committee."

O'Brien cited a party rule that all national committee members must declare their support of the regular nominees within 30 days after the national convention adjourns.

Alabama's Democratic Party was split this year by the independent presidential candidacy of former Gov. George C. Wallace.

O'Brien told Goodwin that he was informed by Mrs. Dorothy V. Bush, secretary of the National Committee, "that you did not comply with the requirement for the affirmative declaration of support for the nominees of the national convention this year."

E. Germans Say Wounded Youth Alive In Hospital

Berlin (AP) — A 16-year-old youth who Bavarian police said apparently bled to death in an East German border mine field, is alive and being cared for in an East German hospital, the official Communist news agency ADN reported Thursday.

The East German agency reported that the youth was a West German, Guenther Oppermann, and was given first aid immediately after being rescued Monday night.

Bavarian police said the boy had screamed "I have no more legs" after two mines exploded.

Musician Seeks Exact Dial Tone

Tel Aviv (AP) — An Israeli musician proposes in a published letter that the nationwide telephone dial tone should be raised 35 cycles per second so musicians may tune their instruments by it.

The telephone tune-up idea was introduced in Europe some years ago and in 1950 the British Broadcasting Corp. began a 6 p.m. daily broadcast of an electronically produced tone of 440cps with room temperature at 68 to give musicians a highly accurate concert A.

TWIN SPANS INTENDED . . . to prevent a huge projected transportation bottleneck.

Potential Bottleneck Eased By Delaware Bridge

New Castle, Del. (AP) — The nation's busiest transportation corridor, between Washington and New York, would be a monstrous bottleneck today, except for the Delaware Memorial Bridge.

Only one of its identical twin suspension spans is operating now. But, by February, 1970, both will be in full use side by side, straddling the Delaware River between Deepwater, N.J., and New Castle, Del.

The bridge, with a main section of 2,150 feet, is the 14th largest suspension bridge in the world.

The twin opened in September, and the first bridge was closed four days later for an $11 million renovation which includes an entire new deck and removal of the median barrier.

So, some traffic jams over the present four bridge lanes will continue during the peak morning and evening commuter hours.

More than 15 million vehicles now use the single span every year. By 1993, engineers predict, traffic will double. It is the only direct link between the New Jersey and Delaware Turnpikes. More road traffic is generated through this region than anywhere else in America.

Seventeen years ago, before the first span was built, ferries plied the lower Delaware. But their maximum daily load was 4,000 vehicles, a trickle of traffic even in those days.

Land Banks Plan To Give Awards To Rural Youths

Two rural Nebraska youths will be recipients of $500 scholarships from the Federal Land Bank Associations of Nebraska and the Federal Land Bank of Omaha this year, according to J. D. Berkeybile, manager of the Land Bank Association here.

This is the 17th year, he said, that the Land Bank scholarships have been provided by the 22 state associations and the Omaha Bank.

Similar programs are conducted in Iowa, South Dakota and Wyoming, other states served by the Land Bank of Omaha.

The scholarship competition, Berkeybile said, is open to senior high school boys in Nebraska who are planning to study some phase of agriculture at the University of Nebraska next fall.

Students wishing to apply, he said, are encouraged to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) as a basis for eligibility. The deadline for filing applications is Feb. 1, 1969.

AUSSIE PLASTIC 'PEEKINI' UNVEILED

Sydney (AP) — Australia's contribution to the see-through look is a "peekini," a strapless bra made of transparent plastic with a bright little plastic flower on each cup.

Unveiled at a champagne reception today, the peekini will go on sale in Sydney Monday at $3.36. Five pairs of different flowers come with each bra.

"A girl can change the flowers in a second," said designer Gerard Doube of Melbourne. He added the peekini will be on sale in the United States, Britain and Europe next year.

Doube claimed a girl can get a normal suntan through the peekini except for the part covered by the flower "which can be removed for private sunbathing."

The peekinis were displayed by models, who wore it with see-through evening and cocktail dresses, sarongs and bikini shorts.

"With a peekini I could get 100% more suntan on the beach than with my tiniest bikini," said blonde Linda McKern.

Another model, Sandra Vesper, appeared in a topless minidress plus peekini and said she thought it would be ideal for cocktail parties.

Police Manhunt For Cleaver Said Very Extensive

San Francisco (AP) — Police were doing "everything that can be done" Thursday to capture Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver, as speculation mounted that he fled the country.

"Everything is being done . . . to bring this man into custody," said a police spokesman. But he wouldn't answer specific questions about the hunt.

Cleaver, 33-year-old author and information minister for the Panthers, didn't show up Wednesday for return to prison on a conviction of assault with intent to kill and assault with a deadly weapon.

India To Attend

New Delhi (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi said she will attend the British Commonwealth prime ministers conference in London on Jan. 15.

JOURNAL-STAR WANT ADS

"famous for fast results"

Author Of Books For Children, Enid Blyton, Dies

London (AP) — Enid Blyton, author of some of the most popular children's books ever banned in Britain, died Thursday at a London nursing home three months after suffering a heart attack.

Miss Blyton kept her age a secret but admitted she was over 60.

Millions of childrene here and abroad were reared over the past 30 years on her stories of the "Naughtiest Girl in the School," "The Secret Seven," "The Famous Five," and "Noddy," the little man with a bell on his droopy red cap.

Beginning five years ago some libraries banned her fairy-tale-like stories because they said the books produced too sweet a view of the world. She laughed off the charges and claimed the books were banned because they were too popular.

She wrote more than 300 children's books which were translated into 63 languages, including Indian dialects and those of Iron Curtain countries. More than 30 million copies of her books were published.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Franc's Weakness Traced To Last Spring's Unrests

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

No Solace

The delayed weakness in the French franc, following last spring's street brawls and general strike, recalls a wise admonition by Ogden Mills, secretary of the treasury in the Hoover administration. Mills warned: "In dealing with the paradox of want amidst plenty, let's be sure not to abolish the plenty."

The interruption of French business by hoodlumism, glamorized as dissent, stopped production and weakened the French economy at home and abroad. It is no solace to responsible glogal financial statesmen to be reminded that when the dollar and the pound were under pressure, culminating in the March 1968 gold scare, that President Charles de Gaulle was arrogant and provocative. In this inerdependent world of heavy global trade, it is disadvantageous to all when a major country faces difficulties.

If we are to learn anything from history, we should understand that looting and arson are not acceptable ways to express dissatisfaction with the unequal distribution of affluence. In a free society, the machinery is always open for change and revision, and it is unnecessary for dissenters to resort to violence. It should be made clear that destruction of capital facilities promotes poverty, not prosperity.

These underlying truths should cause young hotheads at home and abroad to reassess their notion that the prelude to reform is to smash up our existing way of life. Without the highly sophisticated and advanced technology in the United States, we could not long sustain our population at even the subsitence level. It is sheer nonsense for the destroyers to hail themselves as harbingers of humane betterment.

Not Permanent Cure

After the immediate currency crisis, there will be talk of a second Bretton Woods type international monetary conference to review the basic global arrangements. While international cooperation can help to put out brush fires, no clever formulae can permanently cover up lack of productivity and discipline in a nation. As we look over the global scene, the citadels of economic strength are in countries whose people are disciplined, not anarchic. Witness the post-war performance of West Germany and Japan, and, among World War II allies, Formosa.

American economic greatness has reflected leadership in reinforcing the human muscle with mechanical energy (kilowatts of electricity) through improved tools. American achievement is inconsistent with the cry, "Burn, baby, burn." It has been based on inter-group cooperation among talented management, industrious workers, and creative idea men in the fields of science, invention and engineering.

At home the strength of stock prices between early August and mid-November reflected expectations of political change and a belief that American affluence would last. Analysts stress as props to the national economy, increased consumer spending, sufficient money supply to meet requirements, and the display of confidence by institutional buyers of securities.

Growing Expectation

Behind such generalizations has been the growing expectation that the anti-inflationary measures, such as the federal surtax and the mandate to hold down government spending, with the inevitable time lag in results, would not cause a severe enough slowdown to reverse the long-term uptrend.

Institutional investment counselors are still advising their clients that they expect after a mild readjustment period a hign and rising volume of economic activity
